City sets holiday hours

Romulus residents who are expecting to do business with City Hall next week are reminded that the city offices will be closed for two days beginning Thursday, Dec. 24 for the Christmas Holidays.

City officials said today that regular business will resume on Monday, December 28.

Persons who have questions about the holiday schedule should contact City Hall by telephoning 941-0666.

Huron tax bills in the mail

Residents of Huron Township will be receiving some very unwelcome news in the mail this week.

According to Township Treasurer Christine Gumbart, tax bills will be arriving at local residences this week, and she doesn't expect taxpayers to be happy with the increase in tax assessments this year.

Township Supervisor Richard Sullivan explained that last year the approval of Public Act 112 necessitated an increase of taxes by 24 percent on residential property within the township.

"While the board reduced the local millage by 1½ percent and the county reduced the water and sewer rate by 0.5 percent, the addition of 1 mill for 24-hour police protection and the passage of Act 114 gave us a 24 percent increase," he said.

"The millage is down but the taxes are up because of the new factor. We tried to get a freeze, but couldn't. Taxes went down ¾ of a mill but are still up by 24 percent," he concluded.

Carriers Collect

Because of the Christmas holidays your carrier will be making his collection rounds early this month. This will enable your carrier to greet you before Christmas and make it possible for him or her to realize route profits for Christmas shopping.

When you pay your carrier, please make sure he or she gives you a receipt. Do not pay for your paper unless you receive this receipt. By doing so, you will keep unauthorized persons from collecting in your area.

Guess who?

With that look of astonishment on their faces, children at the Romulus Library last week received a surprised visit from Santa who stole the show and the hearts of Nicole Sell (from left), Jason Gilman and Sarah Kenosian who sits atop of Santa's lap. Santa will be visiting all this week, then will make a hurried trip to the North Pole where he'll pack his sleigh with gifts and return to the area Christmas Eve.

Cantrell seeks Attorney General opinion

'Who has jurisdiction over 'accounts payable' function?

Which department — the city clerk's or the finance — should have responsibility over 'accounts payable'?

In a recent council debate, newly-elected city clerk Raymond Cantrell argued that that function of city business was mandated by the City Charter to his department. Mayor William Oakley disagrees.

Now, Cantrell has asked for an Attorney General's opinion.

"It is true that prior to taking office I had discussed with the mayor the question of 'accounts payable,'" Cantrell said, "and that we agreed there had been a problem in the past, however, I believe that that function is clearly the city clerk's and not the mayor's."

Cantrell said that "the city attorney agrees that the Clerk's Office has certain responsibilities as far as accounts payable goes — prescribed by the City Charter. He (city attorney) points out that it is the mayor's warrant and the mayor has the authority as to how it should be handled."

"However, the attorney rendering an opinion of what the mayor is to do is an attorney who is hired by the mayor and therefore could be biased, and that is why I have referred this question to the Attorney General's Office via State Rep. Edward Mahalek for an unbiased opinion," Cantrell added.

Cantrell stressed that the City Charter is specific when it comes to obligations and responsibilities of each section and division of government and, "I conclude that the City Charter pinpoints certain obligations that are to be performed by the City Clerk's office and among them are to receive all the invoices and to audit them and prepare them for city council."

In his letter addressed to Mahalek to be handed to the Attorney General, Cantrell states that... "shortly after I was elected as City Clerk, the Mayor of the city has created a problem which has placed me, I believe, in a position which would prohibit me from performing my duties under the City Charter.

"I would appreciate if you would request an immediate opinion from the Attorney General, Frank Kelley, to determine the correct interpretation of the City Charter so that we may proceed to conduct the city's business in an orderly fashion and within the framework of the

Miss Mitton is Jr. Miss winner

Romulus' Jennifer Mitton added a second gem to the crown she won in October.

Miss Mitton, 17, an honor student at Romulus High School, was named as a finalist in the state Junior Miss Contest and will compete for the state crown next month in Marshall, Mich.

A senior who was crowned Romulus High's 'Homecoming Queen,' Miss Mitton is vice-president of the Student Council and a member of the Eagles' cheerleading squad.

Council fails to select cable TV firm

Although the cast was different, the dramatic ending was almost the same last week as City Council again failed to award the cable TV franchise to one of three competing firms. A simple majority of council voted to allow Comcast Cablevision to construct Romulus cable TV, however, the City Charter mandates that council must have five votes in order to approve an ordinance.

The vote was a repeat of last month's climactic decision by the former council of which four members either didn't chose to seek re-election or were unsuccessful in their bids for re-election in the Nov. 3 General Election.

Last Tuesday, councilman Jimmie Raspberry asked but failed to get support to "table" the decision on the cable TV franchise, setting the stage for the drama.

Then, newly-elect councilman Peter Bergeon moved to instruct the city attorney to enter into an agreement with Comcast to build the cable TV network, and he received support from colleagues Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Block, Barry Baumann, and Alan Lambert.

Casting opposition to the Bergeron motion were Raspberry, Fred Junior Block and John Lewkowicz.

Again, as she did last month, Mayor Pro Tem Banks decided the motion had failed, 4-3. She pointed out that a "simple majority" was not sufficient for a motion to receive ordinance status.

City Attorney Charles Lowther confirmed that the charter does specifically state that "that an ordinance does require two-thirds of the majority of council voting in favor of it to be adopted."

Comcast is competing against two rival companies — Omnicom of Michigan, Inc., and Barden Cablevision — for the local franchise.

Romulus remains the only community in the area that has not begun construction of its cable TV system. Cable TV has been on the council drawing board for the past 1½ years, but because of the city charter requirement that council must have at least five votes to give an ordinance legality, council remains deadlocked.

Ironically, the delay may be a blessing in disguise. The message that council is sending out to the competing companies is that it will not rush into any agreement with any firm until all the data and information is in.

Meanwhile, Romulus residents must wait.

Council has not set a date to resume cable TV debate.

Goodfellows in need of more $$$

Although Romulus residents and citizens were generous and donated more than $3,100 in the recent newspaper sales, Romulus Goodfellows today announced that they "are in dire need for more financial support."

"I can't say enough for the people who contributed by purchasing Goodfellow newspapers during last week's drive," noted Fire Chief John Wilhide. "We raised $3,178 for the needy."

"However, this year there is an unprecedented amount of requests for help, and right now we have almost 100 applicants who are seeking it."

"When you spread that money over 100 families," Wilhide continued, "the isn't very much. Therefore, we're making a last minute plea to our residents and business community for additional help."

Wilhide said that contributions may be either mailed or dropped off at the City Hall. Checks should be made payable to the Goodfellows, in care of City Hall, Romulus. Wilhide pointed out that one of the reasons why there have been so many urgent requests for help is because of the ailing economy.

"We'll be going through all of the requests from the families and those who are eligible will receive gift certificates that are redeemable at local stores."

Wilhide said that the Goodfellows can't accept any more requests after Dec. 15. "This way it will give us time to go through the applications and prepare the certificates for those who are eligible."

Wilhide's firefighters also received plaudits from the chief and Mayor William Oakley for "their work and contribution to the community." Firefighters — who made up a volunteer force — each year stage a friendly competition to see which station can decorate their fire hall the best, according to the fire chief.

Toll gates in Metropark? No way say Huron trustees

A resolution of the Wayne County Road Commission has drawn prompt and unanimous opposition from members of the Huron Township Board of Trustees.

The road commission, in a resolution delivered to the township clerk Mary Lou Carey last week, has proposed the abandonment of Huron Valley Parkway Drive within the township allowing the Huron Clinton Metropark Authority to place toll gates at each end of the road.

"This road, which incidentally, I have never heard called the Huron Valley Parkway Drive, was built with taxpayers' money — and now they want to charge the taxpayers a toll to drive on it," said Carey. "We are the taxpayers who paid to put up that road and now they want us to pay to use it," she added.

Township Supervisor Richard Sullivan was equally distressed by the proposal.

"I would like to instruct our township attorney to seek an injunction to prevent the closing of Huron Valley Parkway Drive," he said. "People have a right to go through there. This township has been raped and ravished by that park authority for years. If I don't die of apoplexy, they are going to be my target for reform," he said.

Trustee Gary Bates inquired as to the chances the township might have in a legal maneuver to obtain an injunction to prevent the erection of the toll gates planned by the park authority.

Township Attorney Richard James admitted he felt there was less than a 50 percent, less perhaps than a 25 percent chance, of obtaining an injunction to prevent the action.

"Perhaps a compromise can be reached. We might have a better chance in a lawsuit," he suggested.

Bates commented to the board that, "We've been dealt out of this politically. I feel it's very important we represent the citizens in this matter, but I feel we can't spend tax money foolishly — let's try to negotiate and not spend a million dollars."

James explained that one of the bases for the abandonment of the road commonly known as Parkway Drive in the township, was "no use by the general public" and that perhaps a lawsuit could be instituted contesting the validity of that premise.

"That road, the land under that road, belongs to the township, we have ownership," said Bates emphatically.

Trustee William Geierman suggested that Sullivan meet with representatives of the road commission and the park authority to attempt to reach some type of agreement before legal action was necessary.

Sullivan explained that "I am not really of the temperament to meet with these people, but I will try to see what can be done. They have a propensity for deceit," he commented.

The board unanimously accepted the motion for legal action to prevent the closing of the road and the erection of toll gates.

Van Buren warns state: don't dump toxic waste here

Wayne County Commissioners in a joint meeting chaired by Paul G. Citkowski, warned the state that it will go to court if necessary to halt the dumping of 39,000 cubic yards of toxic wastes in a Van Buren Township landfill.

Dr. Larry Holcomb, Executive Secretary of the Michigan Toxic Substance Control Commission, attending the joint meeting of the County's General Government, Public Works and Human Resources Committees, said the state will take whatever measures are necessary — if we have enough money — to protect the public health by the fastest means possible.

"At present," he explained, "the State has appropriated $1.3 million to dispose of the waste and the Van Buren site is an approved landfill. An alternative site near Chicago will cost an additional $2 million," he added. "If the State Legislature appropriates the extra funds then we'll change our plans."

Van Buren residents started picketing the nearby landfill two weeks ago in protest; the township board opposes the dumping and township police have promised to escort any trucks carrying the poisonous wastes "out of town."

The meeting was the result of a resolution by Commissioner Arthur M. Carter demanding an investigation into the planned dumping of toxic wastes from the Berlin and Farro site near Swartz Creek, ten miles southeast of Flint.

The wastes were originally taken from the Hooker Chemical Company in Flint for incineration at the Berlin and Farro landfill. The site has since been abandoned when the company went bankrupt. The Berlin Farro site contains soils and sludges contaminated by C56, a pesticide component suspected of being a cancer agent.

Ho! Ho! Ho!

Although they expected Santa to usually show up on Christmas Eve, kids did an about-face last week when the Jolly Ole Man showed up last week at the Romulus Public Library. Santa paused long enough to pick up the kids' Christmas list — and, though he didn't promise them everything — he said he'll try to fill their stockings with everything that's nice.

State can't pay $1 billion debt

LANSING — Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) will meet with President Ronald Reagan and officials from the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) in Washington, D.C. this week to enlist their aid in getting Michigan's $1 billion unemployment compensation debt reduced.

Senate Minority Leader Robert VanderLaan will also make the trip.

"We are pleased to have this opportunity to meet with the President to seek his help in resolving this fiscal crisis," Faust said. "We would welcome his support in our effort to reduce this debt," he added.

Michigan owes the money to the federal government, having been forced to borrow many times over the past few years from the federal unemployment compensation fund in order to continue paying unemployment compensation benefits to thousands of unemployed workers.

"The debt is coming due and we cannot pay it," Faust said. "In fact, the economic conditions which necessitated the borrowing in the first place are getting worse and it is expected that Michigan will be forced to borrow an additional $170 million this year and possibly $400 million next year."

Since the state cannot pay the money back, it will have to be repaid through a federal unemployment tax penalty assessed against every business in Michigan. "That surely will not help our efforts to attract new business to Michigan," Faust said.

"I believe that the National Conference of State Legislatures can be very effective in helping us lobby for federal legislation which will ease this huge burden," Faust said. He added that the issue is scheduled to be addressed during the State-Federal Assembly of the NCSL that is taking place this week in Washington.

Faust pointed out that Michigan is not alone in its plight of being deeply in debt to the federal government because of borrowing from the unemployment compensation fund. Fourteen states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands currently owe $6.2 billion to the federal government because of loans from the unemployment compensation fund.

"I believe it is imperative to pursue alternatives which will alleviate our current and future need for borrowing and the burden of debt repayment," Faust said.

Specifically, the Majority Leader is calling for federal legislation that will: (1) establish a national program to reimburse states for some portion of extraordinary benefit costs caused by national recessionary conditions; (2) postpone debt repayment requirements when the state's unemployment rate reaches a certain level; and (3) allow states to avoid the penalty tax by repaying the amount of the tax from their trust funds.

"By working with other states through the NCSL, I think we could be effective in convincing Congress of the need to pass this type of legislation as soon as possible," Faust said.

Wayne County Commissioner R. William Joyner of Plymouth became a "midnight nurse" Monday and Tuesday night, December 14 and 15, at Wayne County General Hospital to check charges by 17 nurses that the Intensive Care and New Born Care wards are grossly understaffed.

Joyner said he agreed to discuss the problem with the group and spend four or five hours each evening beginning at 11:30 P.M. to see for himself whether the nurses' charges are valid.

According to the commissioner, the employees claim there is but one nurse per 45-50 patients on the midnight shift and that there isn't even time for them to eat lunch.

Bed usage at the hospital has jumped nearly 30 percent and income by $8 million since last July when county commissioners allowed the medical doctors to contract their services to the hospital under an MSP program rather than remain as hospital employees.

Van Buren warns state

Commissioner R. William Joyner, whose district includes Van Buren Township, won the full support of committee members when he placed the county on record opposing the dumping. Commissioners also agreed to join in any court action that might develop if the State pursues its plans "Let those communities that have enjoyed tax revenues derived from these chemical companies provide their own disposal sites," Joyner argued.

"We've skirted the real problem, here," asserted Commissioner Clarence R. Young, Public Works Committee Chairman, who discovered a warehouse of PCB in his own district last week. "Public Act 64 requires the State to provide its own dump sites and the State is dragging its feet waiting for private developers to do the job."

"It's time the State took appropriate action to provide adequate disposal sites rather than continue to burden communities with such problems."

Young, who submitted his own resolution at the meeting, is asking the State to require warehouse of poisonous materials to warn the public in advance of plans to store, provide security around the premises and erect warning signs alerting residents that such materials are in the building.

Young noted that the County Health Department has not even been advised of the toxic waste problems. "You'd think they'd be among the first to know," he added.

Jerry Fore, representing the Department of Natural Resources, commenting on Young's statement, said the possibility that the State would construct toxic waste sites in the near future

"were slim."

Dr. Holcomb, at the mercy of the State's appropriations committee, said he was attempting to get additional funds to move the waste out of state, and could understand the feelings of the public. His assertion, however, that Van Buren was the only site in Michigan approved for disposal of such material, was rejected by Fore who told commissioners there are at least 54 other landfills in the state and two in Wayne County that could accommodate the sludge.

When attorney John W. Voelpel, representing the Wayne Disposal Company, owners of the Van Buren landfill, told commissioners their client was no longer willing to accept the waste, Holcomb reminded him that Public Act 116 required the company to abide by his commission's orders.

"Is that correct?" asked Citkowski. "It is our opinion," replied Voelpel, "that the Act does not allow the Michigan Toxic Substance Control Commission to require a company to accept anything. There are serious constitutional questions involved here."

Pat Cullin, Van Buren Township Supervisor, charged that according to DNR statements the Commission could not approve the site... "they're just bypassing the rules."

In a statement earlier, Ms. Cullin said "it's a state problem, not the township's and we're going to spend a lot of money and effort to make sure Holcomb doesn't get his way."

Senate Majority Leader William Faust of Westland, angry over the State's plan, has directed the State DNR and the Toxic Substance Control Commission to stop the shipments.

"Most people in our community don't realize what these volunteer firemen do for them," Chief Wilhide continued. "Our department is ranked among the best in the state and all of these men volunteer their time. They'll raise money through their annual Firemen's Ball and golf outing and they donate 'Teddy Bears' to children in hospitals and Burn Centers."

Although the firefighters are volunteers, the city does have five full-time dispatchers who are ready to alert the men when and if needed. Wilhide has formed battalions of 13-men and each of the four stations across the city who are alerted by "beep signals" in transistors worn on the firefighter's belt.

"We have between five to seven men available in each area every day, 24-hours a day," Wilhide said, "and our response time to a fire is about 2½ minutes. In fact, our people have orders that if five minutes go by and a truck in the area hasn't responded, they are to call a back-up station, and this has happened only three times in the 21 years I've been here."

"My men are the best and they sincerely care about this city," Wilhide added.

Although they are a volunteer force, the men are compensated if they are out on a run. Wilhide points out "that, for every hour my men get paid, they spend several hours without compensation."

Would he prefer a full-time, paid fire department?

"No way," he replied. "Most people would give their front teeth for the kind of men and people we have in our city."

Cantrell asks for Attorney General ruling

city charter.

"At issue is whether the responsibility for administering the liquidated accounts and demands against the city shall be received and audited by the city clerk's (office) or whether this function belongs to the city's finance department."

"The mayor and the city attorney, who operates under the mayor's direction and control, have taken the position that the function belongs in the finance department office. We enclose a copy of the city attorney's opinion, Charles Lowther, dated Nov. 30, 1981."

"I also enclose a copy of the Romulus City Charter for your attention and direct (you) to Article 5, the Executive Department, and Article 9, General Finance, Budget and Audit and particular reference is directed to Section 9.9 of the "Charter Warrant, How Drawn."

"That section provides that all liquidated accounts and demands against the city shall be received and audited by the City Clerk who shall enumerate them on a regular form prescribed by City Council and who, with the Mayor, shall certify as to the correctness or in-correctness as to the various amounts on said list. Each invoice shall be approved by the elected official or department head, concurring the expenditure."

Cantrell stressed that since the city was founded more than a decade ago that the function of receiving and auditing liquidated accounts and demands against the city have been handled in the city clerk's office. "The mayor's action in directing that all accounts payable be forwarded to the city's finance department rather than the Clerk's Office has placed me in a position that I'm not able to uphold my oath of office," Cantrell concluded.

No immediate decision is expected to be rendered by the Attorney General's office.

In his written report, Jarrett had cited the condition of the drains in the vicinity of Grix Road on the Odette Drain as "extremely poor." He suggested the cleaning measures would "help, but not solve" the flooding problems of some residents.

"Some homes are going to flood no matter what. They are just build below grade," he added. "In some areas the drains are non-functioning and residents are getting only sheet drainage."

Whited's information was an obvious surprise to board members who were unaware of the action of the drain commission with regard to this matter.

"I don't know whose responsible — I'd love to take credit for this but I guess we can't," said Township Supervisor Richard Sullivan with a smile.

Sullivan told the audience that he and the board were aware that the drain commission action was a temporary measure, "but if it will help you — that's fine," he said.

Acknowledging the necessity for more action on the drainage problem, the board members discussed the feasibility of hiring equipment on an hourly basis to perform the necessary work, rather than bidding the job as a whole out to a contractor.

At least one member of the audience, however, was not pleased with the efforts the board was making to find funding for the cleaning of the portion of the Hand Drain in question.

Wilma Reinas told the trustees that she wanted to be on record as protesting the action in cleaning the Hand Drain as she felt this would only increase the drainage problems on her property on the Silver Creek Drain.

"It sounds to me like you people are taking an aspirin when you really need open heart surgery," she said. "I don't know if Mr. Jarrett walked the Silver Creek or not — but if they dig the ditch deeper on the Hand, water will just cause a big lake or flow into the Silver Creek. There's a new home on Inkster Road where the water wouldn't drain so the people made a little 15 ft. pond — now the pond is 40 ft. because of the drainage," she said.

Mrs. Reinas questioned Jarrett's theory that the Hand cleaning would provide a small retention basin or drain off the water before it could reach the Silver Creek.

Sullivan explained that the board felt they had to do something with the Hand Drain — "our engineer has stated that it will help, but not solve the problem, but first let's find out what the drain commission is going to do and I offer my thanks to whoever went to the drain commissioner or got them to finally take some action," he concluded.

Woman fatally shoots her estranged husband

A 40-year-old Indiana woman was charged yesterday with the first-degree murder in the fatal shooting Monday afternoon of her estranged husband and a second count of felony with a firearm.

Glenda A. Sanchez of Butler, Indiana was ordered held in Wayne County Jail without bond by 34th District Judge Henry Zaborowski who set preliminary examination for later this month.

Mrs. Sanchez, the mother of two teenage children, is accused of gunning down her husband, James, in his apartment Monday. Van Buren police were summoned to the apartment, located at 2121 Rawsonville, where the suspect sat waiting for them.

Police said that Mrs. Sanchez had telephoned them after the shooting. Police said that the victim had been shot several times and at least once in the back of his head.

Police theorize that the defendant may have been distraught over the couple's recent separation.

"However, the investigation is incomplete at the moment," said Van Buren Police Commander Richard Debs, "and, although the suspect has made a statement to us, we are continuing with investigation."

According to police reports, Mrs. Sanchez said: "I was standing behind him (the victim) when I took the gun from my bag and shot him twice in the back."

"Then the gun misfired ... I reloaded the chamber and fired until it was empty," Mrs. Sanchez told police.

Mrs. Sanchez said she then called the operator and asked for the Wayne County Sheriff and told the officer "that there had been a shooting - a killing."

Officers responded to the call and arrested Mrs. Sanchez.

'Noel, Jesus Is Born' to be performed

The 40 voice Chancel Choir of the First Baptist Church of Wayne will be performing a special Christmas concert on Sunday, December 20 at 6 p.m., 36125 Glenwood Road.

The production, entitled "Noel, Jesus is Born" will be performed complete with recorded full orchestral accompaniment, narration, costumed actors, and guest soloists. Among the soloists will be Steve Van Ort, well-known broadcaster with WJR FM in Detroit. Also, of special interest, will be several numbers performed by the Church's Junior Choir.

"Noel, Jesus is Born" was written in 1979 by Lanny Wolfe, Don Marsh and Bob Benson. It has been so well received and performed by church choirs across the country that it is fast becoming a Christmas classic. Through song, orchestra and narration, the story of the birth of the Christ Child is told in such titles as, "So Gently He Came," "A Star Was Born," "Herod's Song," "No Room" and the title cut, "Noel, Jesus is Born."

The Chancel Choir is conducted by Paul Beckler, newly-appointed minister of music at the church. An outstanding pianist, Beckler received a degree in music from the University of Michigan and has toured the United States and Europe with the Continental Singers. He has served as the associate minister of music at Calvary Baptist Church in Canton and presently teaches music at the Plymouth Christian Academy.

Admission to the concert is free, with plenty of parking available. A nursery will be provided. Doors open at 5:45 p.m., so come early for a good seat.

Belleville man killed in auto crash

A 21-year-old Belleville man was fatally injured and his female passenger seriously injured at midnight Sunday when the car they were in failed to negotiate a curb on the Willow Run Expressway ramp that leads to eastbound I-94.

Peter Lannisse, 21, was pronounced dead on arrival at Beyer Hospital, Ypsilanti. A female passenger, whom the trooper did not identify, is in serious condition in St. Joseph Hospital.

"We don't have much on this," police said, "but we do know that the vehicle left the roadway on the right shoulder when the driver apparently wasn't able to negotiate the turn."

Hot line to North Pole

It didn't take long for Santa Claus, with the able assistance of Mrs. Claus, to set up his all-important "Santa Claus answering service" in Canton Township. He told reporters to spread the word that until Dec. 23 during the weekdays, kids can reach him from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. by calling his North Pole home at 397-8166 or 397-8167.

Santa, who needs plenty of help these days, will get it from the Canton Seniors, the Royals, Zesters and Pioneers. Santa is always ready to listen to your requests, but urges you to be "reasonable", after all there are a lot of young — and old — folks who need his help this year.

Pitch for area arcade

Tiger Milt Wilcox strikes out

Tiger pitcher Milt Wilcox had a large audience Tuesday night but failed in his bid to get Township Board approval for mechanical amusement devices for his pizza parlor in Canton.

Well, it's not exactly his pizza parlor either. It belongs to a friend and the store is Vinnie's Place in Kings Row Center at Warren and Lilley Roads.

It seems that Vinnie is having a terrible time selling pizzas and Wilcox and a friend are trying to help Vinnie save his business. Milt's mother even loaned Vinnie $3,000 to help him keep his head above financial water.

But in their efforts to help the financially-plagued pizza man, Wilcox, his friend, Mike Kallen, and Mrs. Wilcox may have inadvertently moved too fast.

Wilcox proposes to remodel the existing Vinnie's Pizza Carry-out Restaurant into a family entertainment center. It would consist of a sit-down Italian-style restaurant and a sophisticated video room for the entire family.

The present store can have three machines without special permission, but each machine must be licensed. To have more than three machines, special approval must be received from the Township Board.

According to discussion Tuesday night, it appears that three machines were used at first and did not have a license. Then someone brought in four more unlicensed games, in effect causing two violations. They did not have licenses for the machines and they did not have board approval for more than four games.

Wilcox told the Township Board there were seven machines in the store but that only three were working now. He admitted that there were seven machines in the store at one time and that they were unlicensed.

"We saw other such machines around Canton and they didn't have licenses, so we didn't know they had to be licensed," Wilcox said. "We had our application in for about a month. It seems we get the run-around, being sent from one department in Township Hall to another."

Supervisor Jim Poole said there were other building violations. "I was told there are cords strung all over the floor. The Fire Chief said it was a fire hazard," Poole said. Poole then quoted Township Attorney Gerald Hemming to the effect that an "arcade" was an establishment with more than three machines and must go in C-3 zoning. Vinnie's Place is in C-2 zoning.

Wilcox and Kallen presented the Township Board with blueprints Tuesday night that call for 14 machines and 28 chairs in the restaurant. Board members seemed impressed with the blue prints.

However, Supervisor Poole was not impressed with Wilcox using unlicensed machines in the pizza place. "I think it's improper for this Board to negotiate approval with someone who has been breaking the law for the past two weeks," Poole told his fellow Trustees. "You can do what you want to, but I'm not voting for this until the proper licensing is done."

Poole said that 90 to 95 percent of amusement devices and machines are not licensed in Canton. "But it is still against the law and steps will be taken to rectify the situation as soon as possible."

Aaron Machnik, building official, said, "I think it is unwise to approve a license until it is determined whether this is proper in a C-2 zoning."

Trustee Larson had a different objection. "I have a problem granting a license when we are in the midst of amending our amusement and arcade ordinance. Since we are actually changing Ordinance 88, it doesn't seem very wise to have two arcades under two different sets of rules."

"I feel it would be much more prudent to postpone our decision until a meeting in January," Larson said.

Prior to Wilcox's application being heard by the Board, Jamil Akhtar and Barbara Baldwin requested special land use approval for locating an arcade at 4000 Lilley Road, just south of Ford Road. There was a public hearing held on the item, during which Akhtar answered several questions from the Board.

However, Akhtar said they had rented a building at 4100 Lilley Road to expand their business into a restaurant/arcade. Because of the last-minute change in location, because the police and fire departments had not completed their investigations and because the arcade ordinance is still being reviewed, the Township Board voted to table the item

$100,000 in stolen goods recovered

11 members of local burglary ring arrested

Inkster police said today they have smashed a local burglary ring with the arrest of two adults and nine juveniles. The ring leader hasn't been identified, according to Det. Lt. James Buckley.

"We have recovered thousands of dollars in stolen loot," Det. Buckley said, "and have taken 11 of the 12 suspects into custody. We have not been able to identify who the ring leader is, however, we feel that will be revealed to us in a matter of time."

Det. Buckley said that the two-month long investigation, headed by Det. Henry Crump culminated in the arrest of the suspects as officers from the department executed several search warrants in the south end of the city.

In police custody are Inkster residents Matthew Strong, 21, and Freddie Gibson, 27. Gibson and Strong were to be charged officially yesterday with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling.

Nine other defendants — all juveniles — were to be handed over to juvenile authority for prosecution.

Police swept down on homes in the south end of town providing search warrants for homes on Stanford, Andover, John Daly, New York, Ross and two on Colgate to make the arrest and confiscate the reported stolen goods.

"This gang has been operating since last January," said Buckley. Crump coordinated the investigation and did an excellent job.

We now have thousands of dollars in stolen property that we're going to have to try to find the owners."

ASK THE CHIROPRACTOR

DR. RAY ELWART

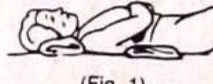

DR. MICHAEL SHAFT

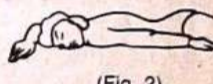

Dear Dr. Elwart,

Q: What type of pillow is best for my neck when I sleep?

A: Your pillow should be neither too high or too low. The ideal pillow is one which supports your head so that your neck vertebrae will be level with the rest of your spine. (Fig. 1) Avoid sleeping on two pillows; never lie on a couch with your head on the arm rest. Putting the arms under the head or over the head, alters circulation and exerts pressure on the nerves. (Fig. 2) Alternately sleeping on both sides during the night will mean there will be less tension felt in the arms and shoulders.

Remember 1/3 of your life is spent sleeping. It is very important to have proper spinal support during this time. Regular chiropractic care is essential to keep pressure off the nerves in your neck. No pillow, mattress or exercise will correct this nerve pressure. Only a gentle chiropractic adjustment will correct this problem.

Not in plastic credit cards

True meaning of Christmas found in the word 'love'

By TRICIA LADD

Much of the world is busy with preparations for the coming holidays. The plastic credit card will be used and abused to buy a plastic gift. The windows of shops and homes will shine with a glitter like gold and silver. There's the hustle and bustle of shoppers everywhere. Excitement, anticipation and holiday music fills the air. It's a gala time of year.

And then the sadness — the aftermath of what is supposed to be a Christian celebration.

The beautifully wrapped packages, with their red and green satin ribbons, are no longer beautiful. They'll become a wadded pile of paper, boxes, ties and tags.

A little girl cries because she wanted real china — not plastic dishes and a grandmother is hurt because her gift wasn't appreciated. It made no difference to anyone that the grandmother could barely live on her fixed income and had gone without her own needs to buy a gift for her granddaughter.

But then Grandma would rather her son paid her heat bill, than give her that oversized, outrageous Western purse.

And then there was the uncle who got a deluxe set of men's toiletries to which he was allergic — not to mention that green tie with the bumble bee on it.

Why, no respectable human being would be caught dead with that thing around their neck! Well, they just had better not put it on him after he's gone!

The little girl is crying because she's disappointed, Grandma's hurt because she feels that no one understands, the uncle feels no one had bothered to really know him, the mother is too tired to care how anyone else feels, the son is adding up the cost of his sister's gifts to see if there was more spent on her than himself and the father is already into the bottled spirits...why not?

It seems to be the only spirits around. Let us re-decorate this holiday.

Instead of shiny ornaments, silver tinsel, and twinkling lights, let us plant a tree of brotherly love in our own hearts. Decorate it with forgiveness, genuine concern, love and patience. Let our hands extend the priceless, yet inexpensive gift of caring. Let the gift be wrapped in a tender heart and tied with a warm smile, and pass them on to generations to come.

Let us remember to be thankful to the one who gave us such ever lasting gifts, from the beginning of time, that we would always have them to give to His children.

Have a safe and happy holiday.

Baptists to view Hus film

JOHN HUS, a presentation of Gateway Films, will be shown at 6 p.m. on Dec. 27, at the Victory Baptist Church of Belleville.

The film was named Best Film of the Year in July, 1980 by the Academy of Christian Cinematographic Arts.

It is about the life of John Hus, Bohemian priest and scholar, who lived 100 years before the Protestant Reformation.

He was convinced that the Bible should be presented in the language of the people, that salvation comes by faith in Jesus Christ, and that the Word of God is the final authority.

Hus openly taught his beliefs and soon was accused, imprisoned, and charged with heresy. He was one of the early church martyrs.

The children will be shown a Christmas film called "The City That Forgot About Christmas." It will be a delight to the young viewers.

Victory Baptist Church is located at 510 Savage Road in Belleville.

The church is in fellowship with the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches. The public is cordially invited to attend. Services are at 10 a.m., 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Sundays and 7 p.m., on Wednesdays.

To discuss 'depression'
Witness minister visits Romulus

Who has not answered his doorbell at one time or another, only to find one of Jehovah's Witnesses standing there with Bible in hand?

Who has not politely told such one that he has his own religion, only to have another witness call at a later time?

Why do they persist in calling, time after time, on all persons, no matter which religion they practice, no matter what social or cultural background, and no matter what day of the week it may be?

Clayton Ball, a traveling overseer out of the New York World Headquarters of the Witnesses, is visiting the Romulus Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses.

In answer to these questions he stated: "We call as a matter of public interest. We would like to see more families enjoy refreshing Bible answers to our growing problems and pressures of everyday living. We want all to enjoy the rich blessings that God promises for obedient mankind."

During the week of Dec. 15 to 20, Witnesses will be calling, this time with an invitation to attend the week's program beginning 7 p.m. Tuesday and 7 p.m. Thursday and climaxed with a discussion of the Bible topic "United Congregation of Witnesses" on Sunday at 9:30 a.m.

The programs will be held at the local Kingdom Hall at 5603 Henry Ruff, just north of Van Born.

SMOKING AND MOUTH PROBLEMS

What does smoking have to do with teeth? Plenty! Smoking effects your whole mouth.

Smokers have more periodontal (gum) disease than non-smokers. Periodontal disease is the largest cause of adult tooth loss. Smoking can delay healing in your mouth, it is a cause of bad breath. Smoking stains your teeth, making them yellow or brown. Irritants and tobacco smoke attack your taste buds, thus preventing you from fully enjoying foods.

Perhaps the most devastating danger of smoking is oral cancer. Smokers have a four times greater risk of oral cancer than non-smokers. Last year oral cancer struck more than 24,000 people; 8,000 of whom died from it.

You can help prevent almost all of these problems if you don't smoke. The next time you think about lighting up, stop and remember the harmful effects smoking causes in your mouth. For your health's sake — and the comfort of others — don't smoke.

Parade was fantastic

By LEONA VAN BUHLER
Executive Secretary
Belleville -
Van Buren Chamber of Commerce

"It was a fantastic parade."

"Winning this prize made this one of my happiest Christmases."

"It is wonderful to receive help when we so desperately need it," (referring to the canned food drive), and "How beautiful the Christmas street decorations are."

These were phrases heard over and over again. This year's Christmas program sponsored by the Belleville - Van Buren Chamber of Commerce brought enjoyment to young and old alike.

The coordinators, workers, helpers, and participants from clubs, schools, churches, organizations, businesses and individuals helped to make this one of the most meaningful programs for this community. Many weeks and hours of work and planning went into this event.

We sincerely thank everyone who in any way helped make this Christmas program such a great success, and you can be assured that your help and participation is truly appreciated.

The canned food drive will continue through tomorrow, December 17th. Boxes are located at the Belleville City Hall, Van Buren Township Hall, The Chamber of Commerce office, Bentley Galleries, Belleville Vision Center, Bud's TV, Henry Deering Agency, National Bank of Detroit, Oakwood Hospital Family Medical Center, Captain Nemo's, Amway-Chum Stockwell, and Wyandotte Savings Bank.

You are invited — the Livonia Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the West Suburban Area Council of Chambers will sponsor a Legislative Breakfast with U.S. Senator Don Riegle on January 15, 1982 at 8 a.m. at the Plymouth Mayflower Hotel Meeting House.

Cost is $6 per person. Please call the chamber office at 697-7151 to make your reservation.

Wishing all a Blessed and Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

Ten student leaders from Romulus High School were invited to participate in a new activity called the "Project Out-reach Student Leadership Forum" at Mercy College.

The Leadership Forums were coordinated by the Wayne County Intermediate School District and included student leadership teams from all high schools in Wayne County.

Dr. Phillip Runkel, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, initiated Project Outreach as a means of providing students an opportunity to gain new insights, communicate with their peers, and develop their leadership skills.

Dr. Runkel said he is interested in knowing, for example, what students perceive to be "priority" issues affecting programs, services and activities related to their education.

The Student Leadership Forums provide the vehicle to attain this student input.

There will be additional follow-up skill building workshops held for the students to assist them in becoming more effective leaders and problem-solvers within their respective schools. These sessions will be half-day learning experiences on Jan. 13, Feb. 10, March 10 and April 4, 1982.

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

A job well done

This motley crew of Huron Township citizens helped raise more than $2,000 for the needy in the township and to assure that no child is without a Christmas. They're part of the local Goodfellows' group who solicited funds and received community response. If you know of a family whom you feel needs help, contact the Goodfellows at 753-4387. Those who participated in the drive this year included Bob Demyan (kneeling from left), township clerk Mary Lou Carey, Gary Bates, Chris Gamber, Township Treasurer, Larry Hoagland, and Stan Uchman; second row are patrolman John Maier, Police Chief Joseph Carney, Rotary Club President Russ Wilson, Township Board member Fred Ashby, Ed Dylecki, Stan Dzielski, Sgt. David Patterson, Harold Ashby, Township Supervisor Richard Sullivan and Frank Marvasco, fire chief.

One meeting a month

Once is enough says Huron Township Planning Commission

Members of the Huron Township Planning Commission will have less time to attend to business after March 29 of 1982.

Township trustees agreed to eliminate one of the two regularly scheduled monthly meetings of the planning commission at the Dec. 9 meeting of the board.

According to trustee and planning commission member Gary Bates, the commission meetings were now continuing from 7:30 until past 11 p.m. at each meeting.

"These meetings are going four to five hours now," he told the board members.

"Why are your meetings so long?" inquired Mary Lou Carey, township clerk. "I don't understand what is taking so long. My understanding of the situation was that the first meeting of the month was for study sessions and the last for business," she added.

The commission is presently involved in the preparation of a master plan for the township, and members of the board asked for an approximate date on which they might expect to see such a proposed plan.

Robert Marker, a planning commission member, explained that the text of the new ordinance is expected to take two or three months, "in order to do a good job."

Marker also commented that he felt one of the problems at the commission meetings was "long-winded discussions."

Township Supervisor Richard Sullivan suggested that rather than air the commission problems at a public meeting, Marker come in to his office privately and, "tell me what takes so long. I don't want anything dumped out here," Sullivan said.

Trustee William Geierman inquired as to the practice of the commission accepting for action questions which are not scheduled for the ongoing meeting.

Bates acknowledged the practice of accepting such items if brought directly to the commission meeting by residents.

"I'll be glad to give this job up if anybody else wants it," Bates said. "I don't remember volunteering for it."

"You came in long ago and volunteered to serve on the planning commission," responded Carey with a smile. "That's how we ended up with you on this board."

The trustees agreed to limit meeting of the planning commission to once a month beginning in April 1982.

Trash pick-up stirs family 'squabble' in Huron Township

A suggestion from Huron Township Trustee Gary Bates nearly prompted a family squabble at the Dec. 9 meeting of the board members.

Bates suggested the trustees re-evaluate the trash pick-up schedule within the township as he had heard from several businessmen who were unhappy with the present system.

Township Clerk Mary Lou Carey explained to the board that the present system was instituted after a vote of the people and the present method was established at the wish of the general public.

Presently, the clerk explained, each resident is billed for $6.50 for trash pick up on the water bill for the residence. "And this rate hasn't been increased in several years," she added.

The objections to the system came from local businessmen who were paying for both the residential pick-up and for a commercial firm to unload the dumpsters required for the trash at their business sites.

"The problem is that some people operate a business from a residential zone and have a dumpster. They are also paying our township contractor — but we have always done this. If the township contractor were to stop at certain homes, people would have to pay much more for all this additional scheduling," the clerk explained.

"Well, I guess I better stand up and let everybody know who they're talking about," said Harvey Carey, the clerk's brother-in-law.

"I don't think the system is fair. Why are you pushing something down my throat when I'm buying something better," Carey said.

Frank Marvasco agreed with Carey and explained that he, too, felt it was unfair. "I resent paying a man for something he doesn't do. I don't put any trash in front of my house and I'm still paying the man to pick it up," he said.

Bates repeated his suggestion that the board re-evaluate the present system when the present trash-pick up contract came up for bid. "I think we should take a good hard look at the situation," he concluded.

A Focus on Living (With Cancer) meeting will be held in the faculty lounge at St. Mary's Hospital, 36475 Five Mile Road in Livonia, on Wednesday, December 16, 1981 at 7:30 p.m.

Dennis Roblee, psychologist, will discuss Holistic health. The presentation will be followed by an open support session for patients and family members to share experiences and ask questions. Participants will be encouraged to discuss their mutual problems in a positive manner.

Lost your birth certificate ? You still may apply for VA aid

Veterans who can't locate a birth or marriage certificate can still apply for Veterans Administration benefits.

Gordon Clowney, director of the VA regional office in Detroit, said that some veterans don't apply for benefits to which they may be entitled because the VA previously held these documents essential.

VA will accept certified statements from applicants in instances where documents needed to establish eligibility for benefits are lost or unavailable. Clowney said that in the case of marriage, this policy applies only to the first marriage for each partner, and there must be no contradictory information on file with the agency.

Only recently has the agency accepted a certified statement regarding the birth of a child or as proof of age and relationship in disability cases.

Clowney said the policy affects all claims for compensation and pension, and educational benefits for veterans, widows and orphaned children.

A bit premature

Although they were born a bit premature, these bundles of joy (at left) and the children above held by Mrs. Claus, enjoy coming back to Wayne County General Hospital for an annual Christmas Party. The two NICA graduates sitting on Mrs. Claus's lap are Tametra Battle, 21 months (at right) and LaShawn Williams, 3 (at left). More than a score of the premature babes showed up for the party held last Friday at WCGH. "It's always nice to have them back and see how nicely they're doing," a spokesperson said.

Children do the darndest things

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Ernest Sorini is chief of Emergency Room Services at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. By Dr. ERNEST SORINI

Children, even more so than adults, have a penchant for exploring their own and one another's orifices with both exotic and commonplace objects. Even as I write this article, Dear Reader, my youngest son (Jonathan is ten minutes younger than Adam) is attempting to perform delicate ear surgery on himself with a No. 2 lead pencil.

In medical school, one of the pearls of wisdom one always acquires during the rotation through pediatrics, deals with nasal foreign bodies in children.

That is, if, when you walk into the examining room the odor is foul enough to knock the buzzards off a septic tank, the kid probably has a nasal foreign body that the mother doesn't know about (the only other reasonable possibility in this instance is that the mother's religion forbids the use of soap on her own armpits, since armpits are sacred in many sparsely populated, and understandably so, areas of the world).

I have struggled with, agonized over, and cursed many seemingly unextractable foreign bodies in orifices about the heads and necks in children — raisins, pencil erasers, kidney beans, finger nails, excrement, and even the mysterious and exotic MacDonald's french fry — have been the object of my often time-consuming and frustrating adventures in extraction.

Many's the time that I vowed never to even think of the word raisin again.

In children, however, the only orifice into which foreign materials are placed which might be life-threatening is the mouth.

And the danger of such materials is twofold, in children particularly. First, solid foreign bodies such as peanuts and other small objects can be aspirated into the respiratory tree of a toddler or small child and cause death by asphyxiation.

It is for this reason that such small objects be kept out of the reach of children under the age of three.

The second category of dangerous foreign bodies taken orally is chemical foreign bodies. These may cause damage by direct injury to the mouth and other areas of the alimentary tract, such as liquid drain cleaners; or by chemical action on distant body systems, such as the respiratory depressant action of sleeping pills or tranquilizers unwittingly ingested by the curious toddler.

The lesson to be learned is that young children are very "oral" (thank you Dr.

Freud) and will attempt to swallow anything from a station wagon to a diamond ring.

Parents must, therefore, be very anal-compulsive (ditto, Dr. Freud) in keeping the environment clear of agents which call kill or injure their offspring.

One of my future articles will deal with the orifices which adults find most satisfactory as receptacles for a variety of objects.

Our Opinions

Council should 'compromise on TV'

There is much commendable to say about the pace the Romulus City Council has established in awarding its cable TV franchise. Instead of leaping, council is deliberate in asking for and receiving all the data possible before it makes up its mind.

Unlike some communities where accusations and counter-accusations ignited the cable drama, Romulus has steered clear from any hint of wrong doing.

Council, commendably, has formed a wedge between it and the three competing Cable TV companies - Comcast Cablevision, Omnicom of Michigan and Barden Cablevision of Inkster.

However, the strains of two 4-3 votes is beginning to show on council, the city and its residents. Unlike surrounding communities, Romulus' City Charter provides and mandates that a simple majority vote of council is not enough to give an ordinance legal status.

It takes five votes.

And none of the three competing firms appear to have the necessary votes to win what could be one of the most lucrative franchises in the area.

It is obvious that neither side is ready to budge.

Therefore, that great American ability to "compromise" must be the key to breaking the deadlock. It is foolish for the council to continue on its present course and nobody will gain from this long delay and the frustrations it stirs.

The city is losing revenues that cable TV eventually could bring in; the residents are losing an opportunity to enjoy another media of entertainment and the services that cable can provide are being delayed.

May we suggest - flipping a coin - if council can't make up its mind the next time around.

Mother nature can be fatally dangerous

Mother Nature can be as lovable as a kitten cuddling up on one's feet.

And it can also be very cruel. Like last Saturday night when it painted the streets and expressways with its icy fingers and caused a rash of accidents.

For some reason drivers can never handle "that first snow, that first ice." And it causes torment and can be deadly to say the least.

We're reluctant to hand out advice that one doesn't already know but maybe repeating it here in bold face caps may help: "SLOW DOWN WHEN WEATHER CONDITIONS ARE BAD."

It may save your life.

Clowning around

Legislator explains 'no' vote on HB S118

A letter initiated by the Republican State Central Committee has recently taken a most unusual action: it has criticized me for voting in a manner I believe will bring property tax relief to my constituents.

Specifically, I've been criticized for voting against a Republican amendment to HB S118, which according to the Republican Party, "would have required the state income tax personal exemption to be indexed to the inflation rate." I am then further criticized for voting in favor of HB S118, "to hold down the revenues of local governments and school districts, and not government revenues."

I'd like you to be aware of what the truth is regarding these bills, because the above attack is an incredible distortion of the impact of the bill and the amendment in question. First, HB S118 has been referred to as the "truth-in-taxation" procedure. It would give down skyrocketing property taxes.

Yes, HB S118 is a property tax relief bill, not some mysterious statute to drive up local costs. It simply says that if property values in a community increase from year to year, that community must cut its property tax millage so that it only collects the same number of dollars from its citizens as it did the year before. If the local officials wish to increase taxes, they have the authority and the responsibility—the local control—to do so, but they must first inform their citizens by advertising their intent to do so, conducting a public hearing on the proposal and then taking a public vote to levy the higher taxes.

Make no mistake about it: HB S118 can offer significant hope for controlling the future growth of property taxes. Interestingly enough, considering the source of this attack on my vote, governor Milliken also supports truth in taxation, and is expected to sign HB S118, if it is placed on his desk.

The amendment in question would not have indexed the personal exemption on the State income tax. That would have been an unconstitutional amendment to HB S118, since it amends the Property Tax Act, not the income tax.

That amendment in question was actually what is known as a "tie-bar" amendment. It simply said that even if passed, HB S118 could not become law unless HB 4865 was also passed and signed by the Governor. HB 4865, according to the amendment's supporters, would have indexed the personal exemption.

I voted against this amendment for several reasons:

- First, HB 4865 was not before the House. It was, in fact, still in committee, and no one on the floor of the House could know what language it would actually contain if it were ever to come to the floor. In that context, it would have been highly irresponsible to vote for such an "iffy" amendment.

- Second, there was no guarantee that HB 4865 ever would come to the floor or that it would pass if it did. If the amendment had been adopted and if HB 4865 subsequently failed to pass, it would have killed the truth-in-taxation procedure, and with it any hope of responsibly controlling local property tax growth.

The Republican supporters of the amendment knew all this, of course; and I can only conclude that they were cynically and irresponsibly trying to create a partisan issue—so that their State Central Committee could write letters such as this one to further distort the record of what went on.

A holiday tragedy

By TOM MOORADIAN
Managing Editor

As it unfolded from Sharon Barnett's quivering voice, one could not believe the incredible story.

It is a story of tragedy, and it made you nervous to hear the tragedy.

There was a bowling benefit last Saturday to help raise money to defray the hospital costs incurred by Cindy Kline, a 45-year-old Belleville mother who is suffering from leukemia.

Mrs. Kline is presently in the intensive care unit at one of the hospitals. Her friends — and relatives — got together at Lodge Lanes to bowl in the benefit.

"We raised something like $650 for her," Mrs. Barnett said. "Everything seemed to be all right, then early Sunday morning we got the bad news."

The news wasn't about Cindy Kline. It was about her daughter-in-law's brother, Peter Lannisse, a 21-year-old General Motors employee.

It seems that after the bowling, Pete and a friend got into his car and began driving on the Willow Run Expressway, heading for the ramp leading to eastbound I-94.

Anyone who has driven that area knows there's a precarious curve at the intersection.

State Police in Ypsilanti had little to offer. No they weren't reluctant to talk about it — they're conditioned to handle fatalities.

"We can't tell what really happened except the driver of the car — whoever it was — failed to negotiate the curve and the vehicle left the roadway on the right shoulder," said the trooper who answered the phone call. We're still investigating the accident."

Peter Lannisse, 21, was pronounced dead on arrival at Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti.

Lannisse's passenger, a girl by the name of Theresa, is reported in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

"The victim's were tossed out of the vehicle," the trooper added. "It's sad and a tragedy. But we had another D.O.A. last night. Do you want that one too?"

Guess not. Even one is too much.

Vietnam Veteran War Memorial: Meaning for all who served

BY BERNARD F. HILLENBRAND

Last week in the nation's Capitol a national architectural association displayed the winning — and runnerup — designs in a national competition to select a fitting memorial for all Americans who served in the thankless war called Vietnam.

The chosen design, quietly elegant in form and structure, has drawn criticism from numerous veterans groups and individuals as not truly representative of the bitter Southeast Asia conflict. Some veterans have even seen the winning entry — designed by a former 21-year-old Yale architecture student named Maya Ying Lin — as a wry joke perpetuated on "straight" America.

Lin's design consists of two elongated, sloping walls that meet to shape an open V. The backside of the black granite memorial will be level with the ground, while the front side will gradually slope down to a depth of ten feet where the walls meet. The names of 57,692 men and women who died in the war will be inscribed in the memorial in chronological order, beginning with the first fatality of the war and ending with the last.

This memorial, funded entirely by private contributions to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, will be located on two acres of national park land near the Lincoln memorials. Congress, in a joint resolution, authorized the memorial on July 1, 1980.

Admittedly, the new war memorial does not speak of marching soldiers, victory parades, flowing banners, or stirring band music. It does not even make statements about military victory, defeat, war, or peace. Instead, it serves as a synthesis for memories, images, and experiences from those who served — and sacrificed — in the rice paddies, skys, and seas of Vietnam.

Such remembrances — often vivid images of the war — and the private, reflective thoughts of some Vietnam combat veterans were the topics of quiet conversation recently in Washington D.C. when a small group of men from different services gathered to recall their days together. They also discussed the new war memorial. Most interestingly, many things recalled about Vietnam were not horrible or gruesome. Without question, some experiences were devastating to mind and spirit, while others were sad and poignant. But a few experiences — in retrospect — were funny, and even uplifting. All, however, were part of the fabric of the Vietnam war. They show the total diversity of the Vietnam experience — and thus the difficulty — of producing a Vietnam veterans' war memorial accurately reflective of the millions of uniquely personal experiences coming from that conflict.

What were some of the "war memories" recalled by the group of veterans?

- A tightly flown formation of Army "Huey" gunships and assault helicopters twisting and turning like a hundred buzzing bees into a dangerous landing zone where enemy forces might — or might not — be in ambush.

- Two Viet Cong girls, aged 11 or 12, sneaking up behind an Army bus in Saigon, hooking two large plastic bombs on wire mesh covering the bus's windows to keep out hand grenades tossed by VC terrorists. Thirty GIs diving off the bus at once. The two girls, racing away, suddenly exploding, victims of other plastic bombs they were carrying. The bombs on the bus never detonated.

- A young Army officer needing a "plague" booster shot reporting to a medical facility next to the Ton Son Nhut Air Base mortuary where a dozen Khaki-clad, tearful Marines unloaded scores of bloody, green plastic bags with bodies in them onto the ground for later loading into aluminum coffins stacked nearby. The coffins were next to a golf course.

- A courageous young Air force captain on a daring nighttime F-4 fighter strike mission near the Northern Coast of Vietnam suddenly realizing his flight leader had placed them in an inverted (upside down) position five hundred feet above ground at 600 miles per hour moments from bomb release. The Captain quietly told his flight leader, a Colonel, not to release his weapons — or pull back on the stick. The Colonel dutifully obeyed.

- Vietnamese and American C-47

"Flareship" and "Spooky" aircraft pouring thousands of rounds of tracers into a tree line on a crystal clear night at Bien Hoa. A GI on the ground remembers looking up and seeing a GI on the gunship lighting a cigarette moments before the aircraft suddenly exploded in a ball of flame — a casualty to enemy ground fire.

- A Marine rifleman getting into a brawl in a rural Vietnamese village bar. It took a half-dozen security police to subdue him. Earlier that morning on patrol the Marine had discovered the nude and decapitated body of a husky young American on a trail. Twenty yards more down the trail he found the Americans head stuck on a bamboo stick.

- One Navy crewman on river patrol remembers the beautiful sun-streaked foggy mornings on the river — and the constant frustration of firing at hidden enemy positions in the jungle at the river's edge. "I remember thinking that I was being treated unfairly," he said. "I had no place to hide."

- A F-105 "Thunderchief" pilot returning from a "Rolling Thunder" (bombing of North Vietnam) mission over Hanoi landing at Udorn Air Base, Thailand to discover a full-length Russian-built missile jammed up his aircraft's tailpipe.

- A young GI sitting in the airport at Saigon directly under a giant hole in the building's roof where a 120 millimeter rocket had blown a 50 foot wide hole a week earlier. Asked why he was sitting in the open — rather than behind nearby sandbags — the soldier answered that the chances of the Viet Cong launching a rocket at exactly the same coordinates were 1 million to one. He sat there all night until his date of estimated return from overseas occurred at 8 a.m., when he flew home.

- A Marine armored personnel carrier crew who somehow got lost near Da Nang and were ambushed by the Viet Cong. The crew's last communication was a cryptic "Had it."

- A North Vietnamese farmer, who lived on a mountain top near the western edge of the Red River Valley, quietly

Westland -Is it a wasteland?

EDITOR — The most appealing feature of Westland is its proliferation of forests and meadows. Most of the residents in this city can enjoy the beauty of nature within walking distance of their homes — a luxury that many other communities obviously don't have or possess.

However, there are two categories of morons who are defacing these assets at an alarming rate.

One group of jerks deposits their trash in the meadows; the other groups of yahoos has the gall to drive into a forest with trucks, axes and chain saws — spends the day cutting and stealing trees for firewood, and (it is hard to believe) gets away with it.

These dummies are highly visible. A truck loaded with discarded mattresses, furniture and appliances can't very well be concealed. The buzz saws can be heard from a mile away.

Surely our police department is aware of these problems.

Can it be that their behinds have been glued to the seats of their scout cars?

There must be some reason they do not act.

Drowned in the sorrows of others, with their problems of hunger and strife.

Without you, your help and continued prayers, they'd not make it through the night.

To my volunteers, I couldn't do without you. You know I would have closed.

Each day that you donate your time, that's more accomplished as you know.

For those groups, I have not mentioned, and you folks who help us each day.

Please don't stop. Help us to continue to serve God each in our own way.

When the rent comes due we never know just how we're going to pay.

Then one of you always comes through. God shows us there's a way.

We want to keep aiding others, but we must have help, too.

Right now we need a large building, without rent or utilities due.

When we get our building, free of charge, just the thought gives me a chill.

Then our cash could go to help others instead of paying bills.

Folks think we'll always be here, but that really isn't true.

The only way that we exist, is with continued help from you.

You may think the little you do, doesn't count for much, but add it all together, and it keeps our spirits up.

Keep up the good work, fellow Christians. We'll do what we can from our little thrift shop.

Pray God we'll have the strength to continue, your acts of charity help us a lot.

This poem is my way of saying how much we appreciate what you do.

Happy New Year and Merry Christmas. Once again thanks to all of you.

Plans for Canton Farm site

EDITOR — The possibility of a roofed open air performance facility at the Plymouth Canton Farm site has provoked some comment...we have attempted to maintain a low profile until completion of our feasibility study.

There will be several open meetings to hear suggestions. Our concert is a community service project, community operated, and community supported. It will involve many paying jobs, and both investment and profit. With community support we can make it work.

Initially, we propose the formation of a tax free community based foundation, similar to the fall festival board. This board will handle the operation — financing, booking, advertising construction, etc. Profit will be designated to community projects with priority given to school and Plymouth Symphony recommendation. Each service group will share in the operation and profit from concessions. Entertainment bookings will be controlled by the board with community taste given priority over profitability.

We invite your input. There is much work to be done. Please write or call the following: Plymouth-Canton Rotary feasibility study committee, Robert Stremich, Dr. Richard Kirchgatter, Robert Sparr, ing, Orren Hall.

Goodfellows say 'Thank You'

EDITOR — The success of the recent Goodfellows' paper sales here in New Boston has prompted me to write this letter to thank the many organizations involved.

Let me point out first, despite the depressing economy, the people of Huron Township and surrounding communities, dug into their pockets and contributed to make sure that each and every child will have a Christmas.

Revenues exceeded last year's goal and we would like to thank all of those who contributed and took part in the sales.

But, we would like to single out some individuals, clubs and organizations for special thanks. Among them are the Huron Township officials, New Boston Huron School Board officials, New Boston Rotary.

We would also like to thank:

Huron Township Police Dept., Huron Township Police Auxiliary, Huron Township Fire Dept. no. 1, no. 2, no. 3, Huron Township Fire Depts. E.M.T. Units, Huron Sportsman Assn, Womens Auxiliary of Huron Sportsmans, to the ladies who served hot coffee, and untold numbers of civic minded people who helped and a special thanks to Mr. Bates for setting up work schedules.

Without your help this could never be possible.

Orders to local merchants, for Christmas foods, toys, games, clothing will be going out within a week or ten days.

Westland should 'clean up act'

EDITOR — Why don't the residents of Westland "clean up their act?"

There are laws against dumping trash and parking junk cars in front of homes — but our residents apparently do not know they are violating the law.

The scenery is sickening. And we hope this new administration will do something about it. Right now I'm looking out my window and my neighbor has three or four cars that belong in the grave yard.

And this is supposed to be a beautiful city? Detroit looks better.

There are signs stating, "No parking" and do you know what — there are cars parked out there.

When Westland begins enforcing the laws, the better it will be for all of us. Please sign me a "Concerned citizen" because I don't want to start a feud with my neighbor.

Reflections

Remembering other Christmases

It is that time of the year again. A time to remember. While Christmas candles are lighting the windows along the boulevard, and fires are blazing merrily, casting dancing slivers of light on the hearths, people remember.

And for me it means I am about to remember 63 Christmases.

The visions which dance in the firelight, the Christmas music pouring from the stereo, and the church bells ringing their special message of 'Peace on Earth' are always the same.

Year after year they remain the same.

The faces touched by the fire's warmth have changed. Some are no longer here, but memory has a way of renewing those loved images and making them real in one's heart again.

There is mother, her cheeks rosy, a little bit from the fire, and a little bit from the red velvet of her prayer book, bouncing on the piano stool in rythm to the Christmas Carols she is playing and singing in her high, sweet voice. Her dark hair glistens in the candle light, and her eyes dance laughingly.

On the floor, leaning against the piano is my father, his white hair making a startling contrast to the rich walnut of the piano; the smoke from his pipe spirals upward and his eyes close as he leans into the music.

This Christmas tree of that long ago time has no lighted adornments, and yet it exudes the light of Christmas, the brilliance of the beauty of the season, and especially the joy of that special day.

Two little sisters join me as we lay on the floor, the firelight playing on us, as we revel in its warmth. And somewhere, somewhere, way out there, beyond the frosty windows, yes, even beyond the shining moon, comes the sound of sleigh bells, and we know that Santa is drawing near. The years pass.

It is another home, another time. On the piano bench is my love. His long fingers touch the keys bringing joyous music, the sound of tinkling bells, and the promise of something, something which someday will become. Six little children play before the dancing firelight and I am on the floor, my back against the piano, looking up into the face of the one who made all of this possible.

The Christmas tree is radiant in its twinkling lights with silvery icicles dripping from its branches, and somewhere, somewhere, way out there, beyond the frosty windows, beyond the trees of the front yard, yes, even beyond the shining moon, comes the sound of sleigh bells, and we know that Santa is drawing near.

Now the little children are grandchildren, their blond hair gleaming in the same way in the firelight as those children of many, many years ago, and the children of such a short time ago.

The piano has been replaced by an organ, but he who brings the music from its gleaming body, will be the same; husband, father, and now grandfather, while the love which pours from his fingers as he makes the Christmas music remains the same, and again I will sit on the floor, as my father did so long ago, my white hair contrasting with the walnut finish of the organ, and I will be filled with joy as I watch six little children playing before the fire.

The Christmas tree twinkles in the corner, and somewhere, somewhere, way out there, beyond the frosty windows, beyond the trees of the front yard, yes, even beyond the shining moon, comes the sound of sleigh bells, and we know that Santa is drawing near.

needles dropping one by one — and then two by two — and, finally, 50 by 50 — to the carpet below.

I will try to take the time to remember the "Christ" in Christmas, as they say. I will however, remember it in my own time, in my own space, in my own mind. I will not burden my non-Christian, agnostic or atheistic friends and relatives with revelations about it as we share this special time together.

I may even find it in my heart to think charitable thoughts about Jerry Falwell and the like. I will not, however, send money. It just seems the Christian thing not to do.

And lastly, I will remember that Christmas is not the time to spend money I don't have to buy gifts I'm not even sure anybody will like. ... but is rather a time—a very special time—to share life and love and laughter with my family and my friends.

Isn't that, after all, how this whole thing got started?

Mona Grigg

This Christmas I'm going to...

They were talking about the orgy of Christmas on Donohue the other day, and a woman in the audience said, "This Christmas I'm not going to ignore or scream at my family for the whole month of December while I drive myself crazy buying gifts, and then throw gifts to them on Christmas day and say, 'Now be happy'."

If I felt guilty about sitting there watching "Donohue" instead of being out there Christmas shopping, that woman took care of it for me. I gave a lot of thought, that day, to the craziness of Christmas, and here is my list of Christmas Resolutions:

I will no longer lie about who Santa really is. I will figure that if a kid is asking who Santa really is, he or she is ready to know the truth. Besides, for 20 years now, I have been trying to think of a way to explain why Santa brings some kids one of everything in the Sears Catalogue and brings other kids rocks in their socks. I've come to the conclusion that the complication is Santa. A kid can readily understand that parents just can't afford all that stuff. What he can't understand is why Santa likes one kid better than another. No more.

I will try to remember, as I shop the local discount store for the Blue Light Specials on the last days before Christmas, that the chocolates in that enormous box with the rose on it taste terrible. Even when it is reduced to $4.99, I will try to remember.

If, by chance, I don't remember, and in a fit of Blue Light Madness (which I am prone to), I happen to buy one, I will seal the box shut and use it year after year as a table decoration.

Just this once, I will forego my aversion to designer jeans and will split for at least three pair of "Ruth Alden's" Ruth has assured me that they are good, sturdy jeans and will go to kids who really need them. ... and that nowhere on them will one find a clever little "Ruth Alden" tag or tab. They will be refreshingly anonymous. Bless Ruth Alden. Maybe I will pass on the cement chocolates and split for a couple more pair instead. ($5 a pair—Ruth Alden Children's Clothing Drive, Detroit Free Press, P.O. Box 64701, Detroit, 48264).

I will try not to scream when angelic voices begin singing "O' Holy Night" over the intercom at the supermarket. I will scream, however, if someone should interrupt it by shouting over that same intercom, "All bidders up front!"

I will avoid using all plastic money. Happy Money, Santa Money, or funny money of any kind. I will stick strictly to government issue. If I should falter, I will remind myself that the bills for funny money have a way of coming due at precisely the same time as the bills for the "height of the heating season".

I will try to bypass the books on trivia this year, having used one or another of them as a last-minute filler in someone's stocking for the past seven years. Enough is enough, they finally get up the courage to tell me.

I will, even in last minute desperation, avoid all things Ronco, Ginsu or Popel.

I will stay out of the malls as much as possible. I will remind myself that all reason goes out the door as I go in. I will remind myself of all the ridiculous, expensive, useless things I've bought while under the influence of the sights and sounds and smells of the malls at Christmastime.

I will, however, be there bright and early on December 26 to take advantage of the sales on the things people in their right minds didn't buy for Christmas.

I will repress my desire to beg for an artificial tree again this year. I will rejoice in the fact that my family still has the good sense to stay with the real thing in a plastic world. I will sniff deeply the pine forest scent. I will listen raptly to the sound of the 'Winter's Rapture'

As a bride adorned for her husband she covers the stage with white. The scene is Mother Earth upon a calm and wintry night.

Her splendor is so glorious, her beauty oh, so rare, Nestled beneath the clouds and invigorating air.

She's like frosting on the mountain top, hills and countryside, This fascinating rapture that nature has supplied.

Reflections of you linger in the mirror of my mind, Reminding me of your sweetness and special way of being kind.

So these wishes I am sending will hopefully let you know, How much I do appreciate the love you always show.

May true friendship sweeten your mornings and season your afternoons, With a cup and a half of sunshine to brighten up all your rooms.

May wisdom and understanding visit you day by day, To guide you with compassion in all you do and say.

And if you ever need someone to help you pass the time of day, Give me a call, we'll chat awhile or I'll be on my way.

CHRISTMAS IS FOR EVERYONE

The greater part of all the world is hurting from disease Tens of millions starving While some sit back at ease.

It isn't toys and Christmas trees Most children have to share, There isn't any food at all Just sickness and despair.

Christmas is for everyone But just a few can reap For all those that are happy There are ten times those who weep.

And When we get our greeting cards And gifts from those who care, Remember deep within our hearts These crying are still there.

Give a gift from the kitchen

Gifts of sharing — gifts that signify time you've spent creating them — that's what makes Christmas meaningful. Weeks of preparation and anticipation gain momentum as festively wrapped packages arrive on the holiday scene. Why not add a new dimension to shopping lists with creative gifts from your kitchen this year. It's another way of keeping an eye on the budget, too.

Select a few recipes you know will be rave successes. Citrus Jelly, for example, is a breeze to make and "so inexpensive." Simply round up the ingredients: oranges, lemons, sugar, and Certo Fruit Pectin. Just follow recipe directions using the short boil method. This way, none of the delicate fruit flavor has a chance to evaporate in steam, yet consistency and set will be just right.

A second recipe — Cranberry and Strawberry Jam — marries the flavor of fresh cranberries with frozen strawberries. This tasty blend is sure to enhance the traditional holiday dinner, so keep a few jars in your own cupboard. Keep a generous supply to add a gala touch to meals long after holiday season.

Show off your gifts with an artful touch. Begin to save empty glass jars with tight-fitting lids to use as containers for your jam and jelly. Spray-paint the lids, or decorate with fancy gold doilies and seals. Add a sprinkle of glitter, crown with sprigs of green or ripples of ribbons. You'll receive plaudits for a touch of genius for both the festive wrappings as well as the delectable contents.

Cranberry-Strawberry Jam
4 cups prepared fruit (2 cups fresh cranberries and 2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen strawberries in quick thaw pouch)
5½ cups (2 lb. 6 oz.) sugar
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Grind 2 cups cranberries. Thaw strawberries as directed on package. Combine ground cranberries with thawed strawberries and measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses and cover at once with ¼ inch hot paraffin. Or use glasses with tight-fitting lids. Makes about 6½ cups or 9 (6-fl. oz.) glasses.

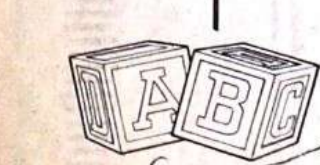

Note: Cranberries may be chopped in an electric blender, if desired. Place in blender a few at a time so that the blades are just covered. Then from low to high until berries are finely chopped (not pureed).

Citrus Jelly
2 cups orange juice (6 medium oranges)
¼ cup lemon juice (2 medium lemons)
3½ cups (1½ lb.) sugar
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the juice. Squeeze and strain the juice in saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once stir in fruit pectin. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon, and pour quickly into glasses and cover at once with ¼ inch hot paraffin. Or use glasses with tight-fitting lids. Makes 3¼ cups or about 4 (6-fl. oz.) glasses.

Note: Jelly may be slow in setting.

Clark-Harner vows exchanged at Kirk of Our Savior Church

Mid-autumn was the season chosen by Lori Ann Harner of Wayne and Robert Clark of 20749 Martinsville Rd., Belleville, for their wedding which took place at Kirk of Our Savior United Presbyterian Church in Westland.

The Rev. James Leduc presided at the five o'clock rite which joined in marriage the daughter of Dorothy and Dewey Mack of 36932 Thinbark, Wayne, and the son of Robert Clark of Melvindale.

For the October 17 ceremony, the bride selected a white gown designed with a little fitted bodice featuring a Queen Anne neckline, lace bodice enhanced with beading and a pleated skirt. She wore a veil trimmed with lace to match her dress and held an arm bouquet of white roses.

Given in marriage by her father, she was preceded down the aisle by her maid of honor, Diane Eggers of Westland, and her niece, Karen Smith of Canton, the only bridesmaid. Their dusty rose gowns were fashioned with high lace necklines and flowing giana skirts. Their presentation bouquets were comprised of burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Four-year-old Michelle Harner of Manistee, who was her aunt's flower girl, wore a little pink satin frock and carried a basket filled with pink and white rose buds.

Dino Cruz of Westland was asked to be best man with Ross Clark of Inkster, brother of the bridegroom, and Rich Harner of Canton, nephew of the bride, serving as groomsmen.

Following a reception at Kosmo's Lounge in Melvindale, the newlyweds departed by train for a honeymoon in Toronto, Ont. They are now making their home in Belleville.

A 1979 graduate of John Glenn High School, the new Mrs. Clark is employed by Willow Run Community Schools. Her husband, a 1978 alumnus of Plymouth Canton High School, works for the Belvedere Construction Company.

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN D. BOYER

By Lee Smith Suburban Living Editor

Granted, I don't get terribly upset and declare a circulation wide disaster just because my crystal for nine doesn't extend to serve 12 or because my 30-year-old authentic polyester-linen table cloth still bears telltale signs of red candle wax and the unsightly reminder of coffee-cups-past. (I don't even LOOK for those "little rips" that have been such a popular part of the Washington news lately.)

But I DO get a teensy bit riled when I can't get something opened after 10 or 20 attempts. That's when the immediate neighborhood is alerted and takes to its storm cellars — those strange puffs of red smoke emanating from the house-on-the-hill being their signal.

I once took a meat tenderizer hammer to a plastic vial of valium tablets when, after wearing the skin off my thumb trying to uncover the mystery of "child-proof" lids I STILL failed to get the blasted thing unscrewed!

And just the other day, I chalked up another experience — this one taking care of still ANOTHER precious digit.

First off, let me explain that I'm not a great one for reading directions (and I can hear BG saying, "The understatement of the day!" as he reads this) But — goldarn! there ARE times when those annoying how-to's ARE a must. And a very sore index finger — a typing necessity yet — taught me the importance of directions (in some cases.)

Having had a rather hefty cents-off coupon for a new brand of skin lotion, I'd ventured into foreign territory — away from the tried-and-true Vaseline Intensive Care routine. The new addition to the bathroom, complete with a handy plunger, had been placed sink-side and was ready to use (or so I thought.)

And, of course, "it" happened on one of those a.m.'s when I was pushed for time and I hurriedly hit the spigot expecting the promised satiny smooth cream to pour forth. No dice!

Hm-m-m? Looking over the little device and then comparing it with the not-as-yet-removed "other product", I noticed a wee impediment — a snug little hard plastic band which prevented its downward motion.

Checked it over, looking for some type of tab for pulling or indentation for cutting or midget print reading "See instructions" but to no avail. So (believe it or not, BG) I actually read the label seeking that much-needed info on how to get the darn thing to operate. All I came up with was a lot of Madison Avenue hype about the wonders of the ingredients but, not a word on how to "unlock" its container.

Having scissors handy, I attempted to pry a point beneath the rather minute ring which (cemented in, I'm sure) resisted my every effort. I dug and dug (becoming more frustrated by the moment) while listening to that little voice saying, "You're going to cut yourself", when — righto! I CUT myself!

So now — lo and behold — I not only had that d-n bottle to open but had the bathroom looking like a sequel to "Psycho" — blood spilling out all over the sink, the scissors, the bottle, EVERYTHING! Rinsing and wrapping the stab wound in a tissue did little to quell the flow and I only irritated it more by the pressure I was applying in my strangulation hold on said slippery bottle.

Still bleeding profusely, I finally took the minutes necessary for methiolating the puncture and getting it wrapped (Smith's Drugs were out of band-aids, natch) before continuing on with the hassle. Honestly, I'd worked up a man-size sweat (spelled r-a-g-e) by the time I finally got that blasted ring removed.

Having hunted for a razor blade and finding only Trac II's available, I remembered the exacto knife I had "somewhere." THAT should be small enough to get into that tiny space, I told myself. And it was, but —

No, surprisingly, I did NOT cut myself again, but — it took three deep slashes to loosen the stubborn circlet and then I broke the tip of that brand new blade! RATS! I was so exasperated by the time I'd won the battle that all I wanted to do was pitch that (bleep) lotion — right back to the company from whence it came.

And you know what? I think I'll at least drop them a friendly little note on how I burned up a couple hundred calories, gave my green bathroom a festive holiday touch with bright splotches of hemo red — and remodeled a perfectly good model airplane knife. I should at least seek restitution for that implement, don't you think? Especially since I just might need it another time to get through some OTHER silly packaging.

ABOUT THOSE GINGERBREAD PEOPLE

As promised in last week's "potpourri", here's the scoop on the gingerbread man, that great favorite of children during the holidays.

A charming children's story tells us that on Christmas Eve the farmer's wife baked a handsome gingerbread man who had plump raisins for eyes, a nice almond for a nose and currant buttons on his coat. After he came out of the oven, all fragrant and brown, she gave him a rosy mouth with pink sugar icing, then placed him on the window sill to cool.

She'd hardly turned her back when he sprang to life, jumped off the sill, and shouted: "Run, run, fast as you can. You can't catch me, I'm the gingerbread man!"

So, at Christmas time, children the world over dream of catching that elusive edible "man." Variations are popular, too, as in Belgium's "Engel Kock", cookies baked in angel shapes; "Speculoos" molded like Santa Claus (or the Austrian "Krampus"), their name for the gingerbread man. Moravian children were especially fond of the dark, spicy cookies formed like people, animals or birds.

Whatever the shape, the important point is that yet another kind of Christmas cookie was added to those already in recipe collections. The spicy, dark, rich cookie (that might be more cake-like because of eggs) can be made in a soft version as well. Ginger was the primary spice then, but others have since been used.

The addition for your recipe files (and mark that "Holiday Recipes") comes from a friend who reads this column way out in what we hope is sunny Arizona. She says she prefers we don't publish her name (aw, come on) and that she has to give credit to a neighbor who served it at a recent cocktail party.

This one sounds perfect (and easy, to boot) for all that entertaining that's facing hostesses and guests alike (meaning — you might want to take it along in a pretty dish as a gift for that hostess who's taken the time to give a party.)

SIMPLE SHRIMP DIP
1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese
4 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons catsup
2 teaspoons light mustard
dash garlic salt
2 cups cooked, canned shrimp, drained
½ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup finely chopped onion

Mix first five ingredients until creamy and smooth. Add shrimp and mash a bit (or leave whole if you prefer) and then final two ingredients. Serve with raw vegetables, snack crackers, bread sticks or melba toast.

THE BOTTOM LINE: If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs, you must have done your Christmas shopping early.

Mt. Pleasant students turn 'chefs' for Pilgrim Feast

In conjunction with our recently-observed holiday, Thanksgiving, students at Mt. Pleasant Elementary School in Romulus cooked up a feast of their own which featured "Pilgrim Stew" and "Corn Muffins."

As part of their study of good nutrition, students tasted the vegetables before they were cooked, then prepared and cooked their own stew and muffins. Then all sat down to a meal much the same way the Pilgrims did so many years ago.

They also learned about giving and sharing as well as about food flavors, their nutritive value and also the history of Thanksgiving day.

Teachers conducting the program were Mrs. Rosemary Foster, Mrs. Barbara Jaszcz, Ms. Theresa Kamensky and Mrs. Cathleen Kudra.

Shown in the accompanying photos are Jody Brown (far right) who learned to wear a protective glove when stirring hot stew; Tova Sprinkle, Andy Salami and Andre Ponder (center) who were taught the proper way to prepare vegetables and Eric Campbell (left) who had the job of cutting up the celery for the meal.

Victory Baptist Church to present film Dec. 27

"John Hus," a presentation of Gateway Films, will be shown at 6 p.m. on Dec. 27, at the Victory Baptist Church of Belleville.

This film was named Best Film of the Year in July, 1980 by the Academy of Christian Cinematographic Arts. It is about the life of John Hus, a Bohemian priest and scholar, who lived 100 years before the Protestant Reformation. He was convinced that the Bible should be presented in the language of the people, that salvation comes by faith in Jesus Christ, and that the Word of God is the final authority. Hus openly taught his beliefs and soon was accused, imprisoned and charged with heresy. He was one of the early church martyrs.

The children will be shown a Christmas film, "The City That Forgot About Christmas."

Victory Baptist Church is located at 510 Savage Road east of Belleville. The church is in fellowship with the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches. The public is cordially invited to attend services at 10 and 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Sundays and 7 p.m. on Wednesdays.

How good is Romulus?

Saginaw, Flint Northern to test undefeated Eagles

By ERIC GEARNS
(ANP Special Writer)

The Romulus High School Eagles will find out this week just how good they are.

Coach Al Wilkerson's cagers take a perfect 3-0 record on the road Tuesday against powerful Flint Northern and come home to play Saginaw high school on Friday.

Saginaw is considered by many as the best Class A school in the state.

The Eagles maintained an untarnished record as they notched two more wins last week, overpowering Ann Arbor Pioneer 95-78 and turning back a tenacious Willow Run 52-46.

In the Ann Arbor game, Romulus got 23 points from Bob Stewart and 22 from Todd Bell to make easy second half work of their visitors.

Pioneer managed to keep it close in the first half as they recovered from an early 8-0 deficit to go into the lockerroom trailing only 44-41 at the half.

However, the second half belonged entirely to the Eagles as they outscored Pioneer 30-16 in the third quarter and played even in the final stanza 21-21.

Wilkerson cleared his bench early in this one.

The Willow Run Flyers put a scare in the Romulus as they rallied from a 44-24 deficit with five minutes remaining in the game to pull within six at the buzzer 52-46.

The Eagles jumped out in front against the Flyers as they scored 10 in the first quarter and 14 in the second to take a 24-18 lead in at halftime.

The third stanza really put it in the win column for the Eagles as they outscored the Flyers 18-6 and then held on in the final quarter as Willow Run notched a 22-10 advantage to make it close.

"When we got the big lead I think we let down a little and as a result we got out of our game plan. I was especially happy with the play of Kevin Baker (21 points) who started his first game and really did a great job for us both offensively and defensively," said Wilkerson.

Saginaw brings in a perfect 4-0 record Friday night and they have won their last two games by over 40 points.

"It should be a real dogfight. They are outstanding and they have three transfer students from Pontiac who are really terrific," said Wilkerson.

Saginaw is led by All-American guard Kevin MacAdoo and all-stater Tim Rainge.

Bad break

Ankle injury sidelines Mixon as Belleville bows to Bruins

Belleville cage coach Tom Niemi should have turned around and gone home before the game with Wyandotte even got underway Friday night.

After the blow "Lady Luck" dealt him and his Tigers, no way was Belleville going to come away with a victory. Niemi should have seen the writing on the proverbial wall when his senior starter, Keith Mixon, suffered a severe ankle sprain during the warm-up.

And, although Mixon attempted to play, he and his teammates limped off the floor with their second consecutive non-conference loss, 50-46.

Earlier in the week, a fast-moving, hot-shooting Ann Arbor Huron quintet gunned down the Tigers 81-58.

Belleville began what probably is the final year for Suburban 8 Conference Tuesday night against undefeated Edsel Ford and will play in a rare Thursday night game at Plymouth Salem, a team that also has an untarnished record as the week began.

Rumors have it that the league will disband after the current school year.

With Reggie Grantham, Chris Flum and Sam Villa each contributing four points, Belleville grabbed a shaky 4-point lead against the Bruins who managed to erase a 14-10 deficit when Belleville's offense dissipated in the second period.

Belleville got only two field goals in the decisive second stanza and trailed 22-18 at the halfway mark. Although the game remained close the entire second half, the Tigers just couldn't muster enough scoring power.

"We had the opportunities to win, but our players just couldn't cash in on them," said Niemi who began his ninth season as the Tiger skipper. "We started out fast then hit that horrendous second quarter and didn't recover from it."

Grantham and Flum hit in double figures for the Tigers with Grantham's 16 points standing up for the game's high. Dennis Randazzo and Jim Wisbanh split 24 points between them for the Bruins and Mike Brennan chipped in 11.

Belleville managed to stay with Huron in the season's opener for two quarters but the faster, deadly shooting Huron quintet raced from a 33-27 halftime advantage to a 57-42 edge in the third period and never looked back.

Grantham continued to provide most of the scoring power for the local cagers as he sank eight from the field and made one of two free throws for 17 points. His efforts didn't however offset the balanced scoring attack provided by Michael Hurler who had 21 and Tom Steverson, who had 20 for the winners.

Jak Warren Memorial

Wayne to honor ex-wrestling fan

Jak Warren, an articulate spokesman for high school sports in general and specially for prep wrestling, will be honored posthumously by those who loved and appreciated him.

According to Don Haney, Wayne Memorial wrestling coach, and John Wood, assistant coach, the 1981 Wayne Invitational will be renamed the Jak Warren Memorial Invitational.

That invitational will be staged on Saturday at Wayne High.

Warren passed away last April, a victim of an apparent heart-attack.

Warren, a native of Maine who was employed by Emery Freights, became a devoted and avid wrestling fan and earned state-wide recognition two years ago when the Michigan High School Athletic Association asked him to score the Class A state finals.

Warren was the catalyst for many local wrestling projects.

"Jak will be remembered by all of us as a person who worked for the best in high school sports," said Coach Haney. "He had high standards and he never compromised them."

"We hope, in this small way, Jak's work will never be forgotten."

The initial Jak Warren Memorial tournament will bring together teams from Belleville, Brighton, Flint Hamady, Portage Northern, Lakeview, Thurston, Plymouth Salem and Wayne Memorial. Saturday's preliminaries will begin at 11 a.m. and the finals are scheduled for 6:30 p.m. There is a $2 admission for adults; $1 for students.

Coach Wood also is seeking host families for the wrestlers from Lakeview.

"We need a couple of families to host members of the team from Lakeview," Wood said. "That school is located on the other side of the state and they won't be able to return that same night."

"What we're looking for is a local family or two to let these kids sleep in their basement for the night," Wood said.

If there are any families wishing to accommodate Lakeview wrestlers, please contact Coach Wood at 397-1776.

Wayne 'runs out of gas' against TC

By ERIC GEARNS
(ANP Special Writer)

Wayne Memorial played three periods of a game against Taylor Center last Friday, then ran out of gas in the stretch and dropped its second straight basketball game of the young campaign, 71-55.

Led by point guard Norm Devoe and wingman Shaun Boyer, the Zebras carved out a hard earned 16-15 lead in the first quarter after trailing early by eight points.

The Zebras managed to stay close the second stanza, although the Rams outscored Wayne 16-12, to take a 31-28 lead into the lockerroom at halftime.

With Tony Bass doing yeoman's work on the boards, the Zebras stayed with the Rams again in the third period, with Taylor outscoring Wayne by a narrow 18-15 margin to lead the game into the final period 49-33.

The Zebras lost control of the ball game however in the final stanza as Taylor Center, led by Ron King, who led all scorers with 22 for the night, spurred to a 22-12 advantage to make the final margin of victory 71-55.

Wayne rookie Coach Dan Vasiloff was understandably disappointed with the outcome of the game.

"We still haven't played the kind of defense we need to win. We turned over the ball way too much (27 times) and that really hurt us," the Zebra coach said.

The Zebras will entertain two league foes this week. They played host to Fordson defending Great Lakes 8 Conference champs; on Tuesday and will take on Lincoln Park on Friday. The Lincoln Park game was previously scheduled as an away contest, but a prior commitment at the Railsplitters gym moved the game to Wayne.

Spartans' 14-game winning streak cut

Cherry Hill coach Dave Bogataj said in pre-season comments that his Spartans may be one year away from becoming an excellent basketball team.

And the Spartans, unfortunately, have done nothing to change the veteran coach's mind.

Cherry Hill surrendered to Southgate Aquinas 69-42 in a disastrous out-of-conference tune-up last Tuesday for Friday night's league opener against Taylor Kennedy.

Then, Kennedy eked out a 47-44 Tri-River Conference win, cutting a 14-game conference winning streak that the Spartans' owned over the past 1½ seasons.

"We're young and making mistakes all over the place," Coach Bogataj offered. "In our first game we committed 27 turnovers and against Kennedy we had 25. Tell me, how can you win ball games when you give the ball away so many times?"

Not only did the defending champs have problems with the ball, they also failed to control the boards. Kennedy picked off 16 rebounds from the offensive boards and most of those went back into the basket for two-pointers.

It was close though all the way, if that is any consolation. In fact, thanks to ailing John Green and Tom Pietruszka, Cherry Hill had a narrow 14-12 edge after the first quarter. The Spartans were up by six midway in the second period and could have broke it open but a couple of key steals ended up as traveling violations which kept Kennedy within striking range.

Ahead 25-23 at halftime, Cherry Hill was outscored 12-11 in the third period and sank only two field goals in the last eight minutes before suffering the opening league setback.

Green, who was fighting the flu, wound up with 11 points and Kietruszka counted 10. However, Kennedy's 5-11 senior guard, Joe Sutayak, led all scorers with 13 points and teammate, Ken Avery, was the only other player in double figures. He had 11.

Against Aquinas, the Spartans fell behind 17-6 in the first period and chased the Catholic AA powerhouse the rest of the evening, and failed to catch them.

Aquinas held leads of 30-17 and 46-30 after the second and third periods before blowing the Spartans out with a 23-12 final.

Cherry Hill returned the to the hardwood Thursday night in Dearborn Heights where they will try to regain their conference poise at the expense of their league rival, Crestwood.

Glenn captures Invitational wrestling title

Salem finishes 2nd; 10½ points behind champs

With 12 of their 13 wrestlers placing in the top six, Westland John Glenn captured the 16-team, new Western Wayne, renamed Glenn Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday night.

Glenn finished with a 10½-point cushion over its closest challenger, Plymouth Salem, which gave the perennial Northwest Suburban Conference champ a run for its money.

Wayne Memorial finished a distant third with 127 points.

"We are very happy to have done as well as we did, in this tournament," said Bob Lusk, Glenn head coach. "There were many fine teams and wrestlers at this invitational."

Glenn garnered four gold medals as Darrell Reynolds (132) edged Wayne Memorial's Joe Colaianne, 6-5; Don Forchione pinned Plymouth Salem's Randy Beaudoin in ½:30 for the gold in the 155, while Tom Gibson, a 98-pounder defeated Brother Rice's Scott Isaacson, 8-1, for a first place medal. Also, Ted Badami walked off the mat with a 5-0 triumph in the finals over Mt. Clemens' Tim Hadley for the victory at 167.

Salem's superb heavyweight Marty Piper struck gold by whipping Mt. Clemens' Randy Gillyard for the Rocks' only first place medal.

Belleville and Canton also each had one champ: Mel Richendollar represented the Tigers on the winner's dias when he won on a default at 198, while Canton cashed in on Todd Bartlett's outstanding performance at 105 against East Detroit's Anthony Coppola, Bartlett winning by a 10-0 decision.

Wayne had three champs: Paul Justice (112), Dan Matauch (119) and Joe Samples (138).

Vanderburgh's 2nd shutout lifts Tastee into 1st place

With goalie Tim Vanderburgh standing guard at the nets, Tastee Freez blanked Brock's Builders 2-0 in a Berrington Division, Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League game last week, and that victory lifted the winners to undisputed first place in their division.

It was also Vanderburgh's second shutout of the campaign and provided Tastee Freez with its seventh victory in 10 starts. Brock's record dipped to 6-4, and they have a solid grip on second place.

Tastee Freez scored once in the first and second periods as Dave Frankling and Bob Eggers rattled the net. Ken Beal picked up the assist on Eggers' goal.

Jake's Lounge maintained a tie for first place by handing All Sorts Sports a 4-1 loss in the Bonkowski Division. Jake Davidson led the victors with two goals, while Jim Lear and Jim O'Gozaly accounted for the remaining two goals.

Mike Forynski, Al Farina, Gene Hudson, Jerry Peterson and Tom Panackia picked up the assists.

All Sorts Sports got on the scoreboard as Paul Cramer tallied the lone goal with Dick Burns and John Castellanos assisting.

Little Bills Trophies remained tied with Jake's Lounge as they skated to a 4-2 win over Etronic. Joe Soukup tallied once and received two assists; Jay Mid-daugh scored an empty net goal and picked up one assist; Gene Taurianen and Rick Rattai rounded out the scoring with one goal apiece.

Ed Harmon finished with two assists while Jerry Bular picked up one assist.

Etronic's got goals from Jerry Robertson and Al Pulk with Jim Thomas picking up two assists. Jim Drewry and Tom DiLaura received one assist.

Family Heating jumped off to an early lead and managed to hold on to a 6-4 victory over Benny's Pizzeria.

Dennis Darnell leaped a hat trick for Family Heating. The third goal was into an empty net, and picked up one assist. Norm Beasley and Marty Woytovich had single tallies along with one assist, as Tom Tucker accounted for one goal. Ray Erickson received two assists while Tony Spada and Pat Brown finished with one.

On Sunday, Dec. 20, the skaters will take to the ice again: Family Heating will host Tastee Freez at 7:30 p.m.; Etronic will take on Benny's Pizzeria at 9 p.m.; and All Sorts Sports will challenge Brock Builders at 10:30 p.m. All three games will be at the Westland Rink.

In the Wayne arena, Johnson Carbonic will skate against Jake's Lounge at 8:30 p.m., while Futurama Engineering and Little Bill's Trophies play the nightcap at 10 p.m.

There will not be any games Sun., Dec. 27.

Comic relief

Funny acts are common at Comedy Castle

By STEVE O'LEARY
Special to Playtime

Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle is not, as someone said, located in a mobile trailer. True, Ridley has moved the popular comedy club around a bit since it's inception, but he says that with the new location inside Maximilian's at 4616 Woodward in Royal Oak, he's finally satisfied that the Comedy Castle has, at last, found a permanent home.

Once inside, it's a quick left and down a flight of stairs and voila, there you are. The room is not too wide, which keeps things intimate, but it is deep, so the weekend rush can be accommodated, too. The drinks are reasonably priced and the waitresses are very friendly, both of which add to the pleasant atmosphere. All of which is nice, but not the main reason for being there: Bring on the Comics!

Proof positive of the quality of local comedians is presented at every show, as two "locals" open for the main act. And this night, as has been the case every time I've been to the Comedy Castle, the opening acts were good enough to have been the headliners.

First up was Kevin O'Neil, who opened with a one-man version of Devo's "Whip It," only with new lyrics. "Pick it. Pick it good," he sang. And in case you haven't guessed, the subject wasn't roses, but noses.

He won my seal of approval with a joke about the city that always sleeps, my next-door neighbor Taylor. Talking about its infamous school system O'Neil lamented, "Any school district that makes it mandatory for first and second graders to learn how to keep their own bowling scores is all right in my book."

Next was Tim Allen, a nice guy who reminded me of the kid I always hated in high school because he always got A's. But his Young Republican demeanor (which to me, is anyone not wearing tennis shoes) had nothing to do with an act that featured some brilliant satire at Ronald Reagan's expense.

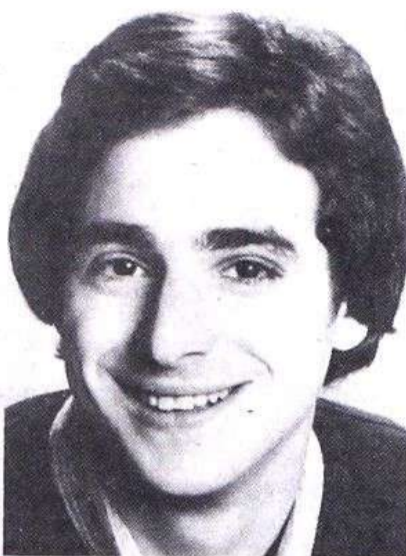

"Reagan is so old... I bet he remembers when he could've said 'Hey, I could've had a V-1!'" He probably made his first movie for 17th Century Fox! While both acts were very good, Allen seems further along on stage presence, and I predict good things for him in the near future.

Finally, it was time for Bob Saget. I first saw Bob perform about four years ago as part of a college tour sponsored by L.A.'s Comedy Store (which has spawned Richard Pryor, Robin Williams, and countless others), and have made it a point not to miss an area performance since. He was a regular on "Make Me Laugh," just completed a guest spot on "Bosom Buddies," and is a regular guest on the Merv Griffin Show. If you're lucky, you saw him a few weeks back on Evening At The Improv, so you know what I know; this guy's good.

Bob's act is based in mock-pity, which establishes his base character as one who says "I'm not here to ask for your friendship... I'm here to beg for it."

After the show, we talked about what it's like trying to make it big in show biz.

Those of you who are (or were) class clowns and think "hey, I could do that stuff easy," ought to be aware of a few facts concerning the writing of material. Bob states that "I'll write about ten hours a week, and out of that get about seven minutes of material I can try out, and out of that get maybe a minute-and-a-half that I can use." That's true for all comics, lest you think Bob is just particularly slow or something.

When last I talked with him, he seemed extremely cynical and depressed. Not now. I asked him what brought about the change.

"I'm real happy now because I'm really in love. It's been good for me. We're getting married in May and we're both real happy. She's a lawyer, so she works hard, and she writes jokes for me, too."

"She came up with that one (which was used in the show) where I told her I wanted to make love with her badly, and she said 'At least you don't overestimate yourself.'"

Bob's taking it all in stride now. As he says, "I know where I've got to go right now with what I'm doing, and that's another reason why I'm happier now than I was a year ago, because when you're really young, you don't know what your goals are, and then when you finally do establish what you want, then you look at yourself in respect to your potential, and it makes everything else easier to decide what you want to do."

"Eventually, I want to get into films. When I was in grad school I figured I wanted to write and direct, so I asked myself when could I do it, and I came up with in my mid-thirties, maybe early forties. As a matter of fact though, I just made a two-minute short to show on the Griffin show."

You may be wondering, "Hey, if this guy's so good, how come he's playing small clubs in Royal Oak?"

OK, Bob, you take that one: "Mark Ridley is a great guy. And that's why most of the comics keep coming back, 'cause I'm at the point now where I don't have to stay on the road financially."

"And for my career, it's hard, because I'm away from L.A. (where he lives) so I can't go out on readings, I miss auditions and stuff. But I do it now because I'm still paying dues and developing."

By the way, if, when Bob's on the Tonight Show in a few months, you hear him define a Freudian Slip as a slip with "I Love Mom" on it, you'll know it's my punchline.

'Absence of Malice' needs rewrite

"Absence of Malice" from Columbia Pictures. Produced and directed by Sydney Pollack. Screen play by Kurt Luedtke. Starring Paul Newman and Sally Field. Rated PG.

By STEVE WALZ
Special to Playtime
Journalistically speaking, "Absence of Malice" should have been sent back to the rewrite desk. Kurt Luedtke, the man who penned the drama, was once a star reporter for the "Detroit Free Press."

Luedtke's story pits an overzealous reporter for the "Miami Standard," Megan Carter (Sally Field), against Mike Gallagher (Paul Newman), the son of a deceased underworld figure who is allegedly linked to the disappearance of a prominent union leader.

Carter's story receives banner headlines. But Carter's source, a backstabbing federal investigator, really doesn't have any evidence against Gallagher, only alleged guilt by association, which is bogus.

Gallagher confronts Carter and asks her to reveal her sources. Carter resists but Gallagher wants his name cleared. Carter's stories become personal, delving into the background of one of Gallagher's closest friends. The friend, haunted by psychological power of the printed word, commits suicide.

In an emotional encounter, Gallagher nearly tears Carter to shreds. Only now does Carter begin to think that she's been set up.

Her editor explores the paper's legal options as Gallagher bribes the District Attorney into clearing his name. The Feds leak this info to Carter as well and, sure enough, the "Standard" prints it.

The lesson to be learned from this flick is that journalism is a virtual minefield, waiting to explode in a reporter's face. I have a problem with this premise.

Field, who is convincing as the reporter, never should have been put on this assignment alone. Watergate was broken by two reporters, Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein. One was the superior writer while the other was a whiz at digging for information. A carnal encounter between Carter and Gallagher seemed totally out of the question, considering the fact that they had nothing in common, but it happened anyway.

Only the drawing power of Field/Newman can save this film from box-office disaster. There are just too many obvious flaws.

Miss Kuhr earns state swim honors

Belleville High's lone representative to the Class A state swimming championships, Laura Kuhr, wound up her prep swim career in high style.

Miss Kuhr turned in a 54.30 to capture a sixth place medal in the 100-yard freestyle and her 25.12 for the 50-yard freestyle earned her an eighth place in the state.

Coached by John Halewski, Miss Kuhr plans to continue her education and swimming career next year at Eastern Michigan University.

Glenn picks league opener to notch first win

John Glenn split two low-scoring games last week, but picked the most important one to win its first game of the young season.

Coach Dan Henry's inexperienced Rockets dropped a 52-49 overtime decision to Taylor Kennedy in non-league action before roaring back Friday night to edge Garden City East 42-38 in their Northwest Suburban League opener.

"We were just not mentally ready against Kennedy," Henry pointed out. "We weren't settled—and even though we led the entire game, including the overtime, mistakes cost us the game."

"On the other hand, we played a lot better against East. We hustled and played defense like John Glenn has a history of playing," said Henry, now in his third year as varsity coach of the Rockets.

Glenn's defense was all over the court in holding the Panthers to a paltry 13 field goals for the entire game. The Rockets defense was truly masterful in the third period when it held the host team to only one point for the eight minute quarter.

Pacing Glenn's attack were center Jack Walker with 15 points and 19 rebounds and Rick Wilson with nine markers and 15 caroms. East's mighty mite guard, 5-foot-6 Mike Curylo, tossed in five field goals and three free throws for 13 points, the only Panther in double-figures.

Glenn trailed 8-6 after the first stanza of the deliberate-paced game, but got running in the second period for a 17-15 margin to knot the score at 23-all as the teams strolled off the court at intermission. The Rockets contested every East shot in the third period as it managed a 7-1 advantage, holding the Panthers to a single free throw for eight minutes.

Glenn's 30-24 third quarter lead was threatened by East's 14-12 final quarter margin, but the Rockets maintained at least a four-point lead up to the buzzer.

"East went to a slow-down offense and looked for the good shot. But Glenn contested every shot they threw up and we grabbed the rebounds to limit them to only one point in the third period," Henry said.

"We were mentally ready against East and didn't repeat the terrible mistakes that had cost us the Taylor Kennedy game three nights earlier. Glenn players don't like to be losers and they battled hard to beat East."

It was a different story against Taylor

Kennedy.

Traveling to the gym that some call "The Dungeon" because of its layout, Glenn battled the Eagles to a 10-10 first period deadlock before pulling to a 22-16 halftime lead. The Rockets clung to a slim 32-28 margin after three quarters before a 14-10 last quarter bulge by Kennedy sent the game into overtime tied at 42-42.

"Kennedy always slows down the play and we couldn't get our running game going. One good thing came out of the disappointing loss at Kennedy," Henry said. "I found out who the top eight players are. Kennedy had seven or eight drives down the lane to the basket and no one stepped in to defend against them. But we showed films of the Glenn-Kennedy game to our players before we played East and the players responded with a really good effort."

Glenn led the entire game before Kennedy tied it at 42-all in regulation. Then the Rockets led 46-42 with two minutes to go in the 3-minute overtime period when Glenn took some bad shots and had the ball stolen as the Eagles outscored their visitors, 10-7, for the 52-49 non-league win.

Dan Reitmeyer, a 6-2 forward, pumped in 15 points on good drives to the hoop and 8th man Joe Sutyak, a 6-1 forward, added 12 for Kennedy. Bob Hawley fired in seven field goals and 3-of-4 free throw attempts for 17 Rocket markers and teammate Greg Gill chipped in 12 points on six baskets.

Glenn's record is 1-2 overall and 1-0 in Northwest Suburban League play as the Rockets prepare to host Redford Thurston Friday night in conference action after being idle Tuesday of this week.

"Thurston is undefeated going into this week and we'd like nothing better than to knock them off when they come here Friday night," Henry said.

Next week, Glenn joins Taylor Kennedy, Cherry Hill and Wayne Memorial at the latter's gym for the Christmas Holiday Classic on Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 22, 23. Glenn tangles with Kennedy at 6 p.m. Dec. 22 and Wayne plays Cherry Hill in the second game of the holiday double-header at 8 p.m.

On Wednesday, Dec. 23, the two losers from Tuesday's games will meet in the consolation game at 6 p.m. while the two winners play in the championship game at 8 p.m.

Salem defense sparkles as Rocks roll, 49-43

Plymouth Salem's defense sparkled again Saturday night as it held visiting Trenton to only five field goals in the first half enroute to a 49-43 win in the Rocks' Suburban "8" League opener Saturday night.

"It wasn't a real action-packed type of game," Salem Coach Fred Thomann explained after the Rocks ran their record to 2-0 overall. "It was a real good defensive struggle where each team was able to contain the other team's offense. But it was a good solid victory — nothing flashy — just hard-nosed defense by both teams."

Salem managed a 10-7 first period lead and a slim 24-21 margin at intermission. A 12-8 third quarter advantage gave the host Rocks a 36-29 lead heading into the final period when the Trojans won their only quarter, a 14-13.

Guards Mike McBride and David Miller paced Salem's attack with 13 and 11 points, respectively, in addition to playing tough defense and guiding the Rock's offense.

Rod Scharboneau, Trenton's 6-1 forward, led three Trojans in double figures with 15 points. Teammates David Galko chipped in 13 markers and guard Devin Hart added 11.

Salem now gets ready to play Belleville at home tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. The game was moved forward one night because of Christmas vacation coming up after Friday's school day.

Coach Thomann is not taking Belleville lightly even though Coach Tom Niemi's Tigers are winless in three starts. The Sub "8" League clash should be won by the Rocks, who have shown excellent defensive ability in throttling Walled Lake Central, 50-44, and Trenton, 49-43. The Rocks held Central to 16 field goals and allowed Trenton only 12 in displaying their defensive excellence.

Norm Haygood popped in two of his three field goals in the first period and Galko, a 6-foot-6 post man responded with four markers as Salem led, 10-7.

The two teams battled to a 14-14 second quarter deadlock as Miller led the well-balanced Salem scoring with four points in the stanza. Thomann used his bench considerably in the period, flooding the floor with 10 players during the eight minute span.

"We have a lot of players with about the same ability and it is a real blessing to be able to call on the bench at any time to get the job done," Thomann said. It was still a real dogfight at intermission as Salem led only 24-21.

"I told the players we had to play aggressive defense in the second half but had to avoid the fouls that had given Trenton 11 of its 21 first half points. We only allowed five field goals in the first half and I thought that was excellent defense," Thomann said.

McBride played an excellent second half, pumping in five points in the third quarter and six in the fourth stanza to pace Salem's scoring. Salem's 12-8 third period margin opened up a 36-29 lead before Scharboneau's six points in the fourth quarter narrowed the final victory margin to 49-43.

"I'm very happy with our defense. We're on the right track and have to work hard and continue to get better," the veteran Thomann explained. "We have to work extra hard and get better on the offensive and defensive boards. But we're on the right track and overall I'm pretty well pleased with the way our team has started the season."

After tangling with Belleville Thursday night (Dec. 17), Salem will prepare for the Christmas Tournament it will host next Monday and Tuesday nights (Dec. 21, 22). In the holiday special, Livonia Stevenson, a strong team this year, tangles with cross-town rival Livonia Churchill at 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 21.

Canton and Salem clash in the second game of the Dec. 21 double-header at 8:30 p.m.

The two losers of Monday's games will square off in the consolation game Tuesday (Dec. 22) at 7 p.m., while Monday's winners will tangle for the tournament title in the championship game at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Romulus student earns unique honor

Marc Marsiglia, sophomore at Romulus High, will be the first Romulus student to attend the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation Leadership Seminar.

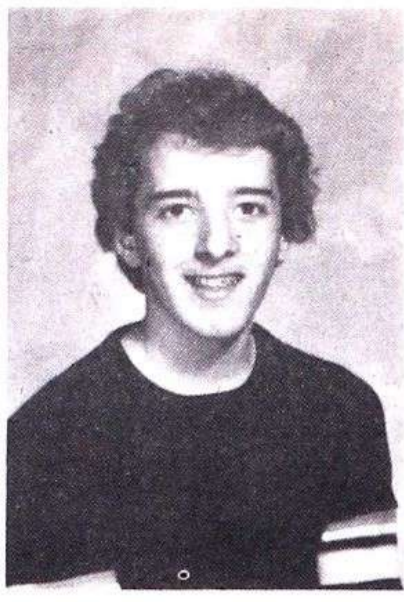

In the belief that America's greatest resource is in its youth, Hugh O'Brien established the Foundation in 1958. Its purpose is to seek out, recognize and reward leadership potential in high school sophomores.

At this year's seminar, the students will explore the topic "America's Incentive System." They will get a realistic look at what makes the American incentive system tick, from a group of distinguished leaders in business, industry, education and government.

The Michigan State Seminar will be held on May 14-16, 1982.

Marc is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Marsiglia of Romulus.

St. Al's to co-sponsor a 'Christ Child Shower'

The Helping Hand Thrift Shop and the Christian Service group of St. Aloysius Church of Romulus will co-sponsor a Christ Child Shower, during church services Saturday and Sunday (Dec. 19-20).

Helping Hand assists families in the area, providing layettes for newborn infants of needy families, referred to it by various agencies and other authorized personnel.

However, it takes 15 items to make a complete layette for an infant, and Helping Hand's supply of new and used baby clothing is in need of replenishing.

Parishioners are being asked to bring gifts of clothing, paired to the first initial of their last names, to church on Saturday and Sunday. The donations will provide a variety of clothing for the infants, and "put a smile on a mother's face as she dresses her child for its trip home and first meeting with its family," said Florence Klein, Helping Hand's volunteer director.

Recommended contributions — by last names — are: A-B — sweater sets; C-D — booties and socks; E-F — blankets, receiving or crib; G-H — sleepers;

I-J — gowns; K-L — diapers, cloth or disposable; M-N — undershirts; O-P — any kind of material for making baby clothing; Q-R — baby toys; S-T — baby bottles; U-V-W — baby foods and formula, either boxes or jars; X-Y-Z — hats and sweaters.

Mrs. Klein added that tax deductible contributions also can be made by contacting the organization at P.O. Box 375, Romulus, 48174.

Christmas shopping

Kids get real treat

Children enrolled in the Vocational Child Care program at Romulus High School were treated to a special Christmas shopping experience by the school's Store Management Program.

Last Thursday the preschoolers, accompanied by their teachers in training, walked to the school store, where a special childrens Christmas Shop had been set up on their behalf.

Gifts were carefully selected for members of the family that were within the budget of the young Christmas shoppers. Carolyn Robinson, technical aide for Store Management, counseled children on merchandise selection as students wrote up sales slips and transacted sales with the youngsters.

Store Management students developed skill in dealing with young customers, while Child Care students gained experience in supervising a children's activity outside of the classroom. The greatest benefit, however, was to the children, who learned a very important lesson that day. It really can be better to give than receive.

Christmas day is sure to be more meaningful this year to the first-time shoppers.

How sweet it is

Board OKs funds for fire hall roof repair

Members of the Huron Township Board of Trustees have agreed to an $800 expenditure for the repair of the roof on fire hall number one in the township, but are going to further investigate the repair of fire hall number two.

While both fire stations are in need of repair, the single bid for work on the buildings quoted a $3,800 expense for fire hall number two.

According to Fire Chief Frank Marvaso, the problem is the metal deck in the building construction which permits the possibility of rust pockets. "The longer we let this go, the more chance of rust we have," he told the board.

Township engineer Jerry Jarrett suggested the board investigate the possibility of a urethane roof which is blown in over the existing structure and then sealed.

"This provides terrific insulation and goes on right over the old roof. Tearing off the old roof is a large part of the labor expense," he explained. "Dow Chemical will examine the roof at no cost," he added.

The engineer cited a building of 4,000 sq. ft. with a gas bill of only $90 as an example of the insulation effectiveness of the new type of roofing material.

Board members agreed to investigate this possibility and to reject the bid for station number two, but accept the proposed work for station number one.

12. Engineer's Report - Wilhelm

Has a meeting Friday with representatives and engineers from the Health Department and DNR regarding the illegal filling on Sumpter and Willis Roads. Need flood plains protected and drains left open. Reported on the culvert on the corner of Karr and Oakville-Waltz Road. Suggested a post be placed, off the right of way, to stay away from the culvert and ditch. Dan Welch questioned the Engineer as to the frequency of his visits to the landfill. Makes weekly trips. Also if he is making a written report as stated in the new landfill ordinance. Residents also stated work is going on at the landfill as early as 4:30 and 5:00 A.M. Mr. Brannon asked the Engineer when Phase III of the drain program was to begin. Bids are out now and will be opened December 18, 1981 with Engineer's recommendation to the Board the first meeting in January 1982.

Motion by Reaume, supported by Morgan to accept Engineer's Report. Motion carried unanimously.

13. Attorney's Report - Witthoff

Discussed City Sand & Landfill's amended complaint. Has not filed an answer as yet. Asked for an extension of time for more research. Will file in about a week. Insurance Company may join in on certain aspects of the case. Will report at next meeting.

Pioneer Apts. - Contacted by Mr. Blake, requested he meet with the Committee, Reaume, Morgan and Witthoff.

On the Hess matter he has had some difficulty with Probate Court. After Probate Court approval will prepare a draft of the settlement and bring it back to the Township Board.

Dan Welch asked the Attorney if City Sand has a construction permit for the new part of the landfill from DNR. Bevins asked the Attorney if it was impossible for the landfill to operate under the new ordinance. Attorney stated it is not impossible. Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume to accept Attorney's Report. Motion carried unanimously.

14. Old Business

A. Mr. Humphreys asked for a progress report on the Sumpter School. Asked if the meeting with Van Buren Board of Education was an open meeting. Supervisor assured him it would be.
